

The Ghost of Liddy Haunts Fish and Ford

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The political ghost of convicted Watergate burglar G. Gordon Liddy may yet come back to haunt Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. and Gerald P. Ford whose statements on who got Liddy his original job in Washington are in apparent conflict.

FORD (R) IN POUGHKEEPSIE CAMPAIGNING FOR FISH IN '68

District on June 18, 1968. Liddy withdrew from the race but surfaced as a special assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury for organized crime on April 21, 1969. What happened in between those two events is now the subject of a mounting controversy.

Ford is quoted in the New York Times as saying he played only a "minor" role in getting Liddy the job in Washington. "I went up to campaign for Ham," Ford said, according to the Times. "While I was there, the local politicians in Dutchess County came to me and said we're trying not to divide the vote and would you help Ham get Mr. Liddy a job a Treasury Department official if Mr. Nixon wins." "Divide the vote" was a euphemism for getting Liddy out of the race, Liddy, though losing to Fish by about 3,400 votes overall in the five-county 28 District primary, beat him by about 800 votes in Fish's home county, Dutchess. Liddy pulled out and did not campaign in the general election but still polled more than 7,200 votes on the Conservative line. Fish went on to win a narrow 4,400 vote victory over Democrat John Dyson.

Ford said he later promised Fish, according to The Times, to make a phone call on behalf of Liddy. Ford said he called himself — "I don't run an employment agency," Fish said — but allowed that he did write a letter of recommendation to Ford on behalf of Liddy. "I asked Mr. Ford for a routine endorsement" (of things), the Republican Liddy, Fish said. "It was nomination for Dutchess County entirely natural for Mr. Ford to respond to such a request."

George Reid, Dutchess County Republican chairman at the time, confirms that there was a "deal" — Liddy's withdrawal for the job in Washington — but also says that Fish had nothing to do with it.

Reid, who says now that he was "quite instrumental in getting Liddy out of the race," said he met "five or six times" with Liddy and twice with Ford, although never with Liddy and Ford at the same time, and further says that "Fish was not in any of those negotiations."

While stating that Fish played no direct role in the "Liddy deal," Reid nonetheless in Dutchess County as Fish's guest on June 22. "Ford said we'd have to wait until the first of the year,"

Reid said. He said he then told Liddy that he'd (Reid) continue looking for a job for Liddy. "Liddy was constantly looking for contacts in Washington," Reid recalls, speaking of that summer of 1968. "He was down there on several occasions. Whether he talked to Ford while he was down there, I don't know."

Liddy announced his intention not to campaign on July 29, 1968, throwing his support to Fish and accepting the chairmanship for the Nixon Agnew Team in Dutchess County. The road to victory over Dyson was clear. "Ham would not have had a chance of beating Dyson if Liddy had campaigned vigorously," Reid said.

Fish, of course, defeated Dyson and went on to reelection twice. And Fish is now a member of the House Judiciary Committee which will pass qualifications of Congressman Ford to serve as vice president of the United States.

Fish's old foe, Dyson, chairman of the New York State Democratic Advisory Council, says that Fish should disqualify himself from voting on the Ford nomination because of "this Liddy deal."

"As far as disqualifying myself," Fish said, "as I said, there's no Liddy deal and I certainly have no intention of accepting any advice from Mr. Dyson."

G. GORDON LIDDY
... center of dispute

Ford... 'Nothing to Hide'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford says the FBI probe for congressional confirmation hearings has uncovered no potentially embarrassing incidents in his past as far as he could tell from agents' questioning.

The FBI probe apparently did not address itself to "routine political matters," but there have been a number of questions raised on Ford's role in the Liddy affair in Dutchess County five years ago but it had a major effect on the congressional race between Republican Hamilton Fish Jr. and Democrat John S. Dyson.

The FBI agents interviewed the House Republican leader in his office late Wednesday for an investigation ordered by confirmation committees in both the House and Senate.

Ford said he expects Congress to make an intensive investigation into his past—and said it will get his cooperation—because his is "a precedent-setting circumstance."

Ford, the first person to come under the 25th Amendment's new procedure for replacing a vice president, commented in an interview with The Associated Press.

Here is part of the interview: Q. People outside politics may have trouble understanding your acknowledgment that you helped G. Gordon Liddy get a job in government so he wouldn't run against a New York congressman. Do you think acknowledgments like that will hurt you?

A. Every member of Congress from time to time—virtually every person in public life—is asked to endorse the candidacy of somebody for a job.

And in this case I did not initiate the job candidacy of Mr. Liddy. I was asked by the local public officials, the local party official in Dutchess County N.Y., to make a phone call on behalf of Mr. Liddy, which I did in April 1968. The initial recommendation for the job was made through his own congressman and through the party officials.

Q. The Senate Rules Committee has asked not only for your income tax returns but for an audit of them. Is that all right with you?

A. Yes. Q. The Senate committee also has asked your permission to obtain all the medical records, physical and even mental if there are such records. Does that bother you?

A. Not at all. I have told the attending physician at the Capitol to make any and all records available and to the best of my recollection I will give them the names of all doctors who have treated me in any way whatsoever.

I will also instruct those doctors to make any files concerning me available.

'Decisive' Tank Battle in Second Day

By United Press International Israeli and Egyptian tanks fought in the Sinai desert just east of the Suez canal for the second straight day today in an armed battle of armor that Israeli forces chief said "may be the turning point" of the Middle East war.

Meanwhile, some North Korean fighter pilots are in Egypt and flew combat missions against Israeli planes "within the last 24 hours," the Defense Department said today.

A Pentagon spokesman, William Beecher, said neither the Israelis nor the North Koreans suffered any casualties during a brief aerial battle.

"It is believed that about 30 North Korean pilots have been operating MIG21 (jet fighters) in Egypt since before the hostilities began," Beecher said. "It looks like the first (North Korean-Israeli) engagement occurred within the last 24 hours. "There were some shots exchanged, but there were no planes shot down on either side."

With the probability that the battlefield issue must be decided before the peace makers can take over, the Israeli national radio reported that fresh fighting has opened in the central sector of the canal where Israel claimed to have knocked out up to 100 Egyptian tanks in daylong fighting Wednesday.

Both sides claimed victory. Egypt said it knocked out large numbers of Israeli tanks and armored cars in what the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram described as "an awesome armored clash," the largest battle of the war.

It took time. "The fighting continued into the early hours of today. "It turned the central sector into an inferno," Al-Ahram said. Israeli armed forces chief Lt. Gen. David Elazar told the Israeli nation after Wednesday's fighting: "We are now calling the tune. Our superiority is clear and things are going well. But ending the war may take time."

Israel claimed that a task force it sent across the canal Tuesday was still operating behind Egyptian lines. Egypt claimed it had been wiped out.

The Sinai was the decisive front, Egypt claims to have advanced from eight to 10 miles beyond the canal. Israel said the advance was from three to five miles.

Israeli commandos reported sabotaging Arab ships today at Egyptian naval bases at Port Said on the Mediterranean and Ras Zafarana on the Gulf of Suez. The Beirut newspaper An-Nahar said Israeli frogmen blew up an underwater phone cable linking Lebanon and Europe.

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star reported the "tragic death" Saturday of Lt. Gen. Fyodor M. Bondarenko, commander of Russia's anti-aircraft missile troops, but gave no details. Some Western observers in Moscow speculated the 54-year-old general might have been killed in the Middle East fighting.

Tass, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, called today for "united action of the Arab countries" in the fight to recover territory lost to Israel in the 1967 war.

USA, USSR Strive for Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — The diplomatic search for an end to the Arab-Israeli war has narrowed and Anatoly F. Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador to the United States, Any agreement would be sent to the United Nations Security Council for ratification.

At the same time, however, rumors spread in Moscow that Premier Alexei N. Kosygin was on a secret mission to Cairo for talks with Egyptian leaders.

While working for an end to the fighting, the United States is facing increased pressure from the Arab nations to pull back from its support of Israel.

The Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries announced in Kuwait Wednesday they will cut production at least 5 per cent a month until Israel pulls back from territory taken in the 1967 war and restores the rights of Palestinian refugees.

Because the United States gets only about 6 per cent of the oil it uses from the Arab countries, the Arabs strategy was to squeeze the Europeans and Japanese in the hope that they in turn would put the screws on Washington, Israel's chief source of arms.

A 5 per cent cut in U.S. imports from the Arab countries would reduce the total supply in the United States only three-tenths of one per cent, the U.S. expert said in Washington. But he estimated the action would reduce Western Europe's supply by 3 per cent and Japan's by 2 per cent.

The Nixon Administration is counting on imports of refined heating oil from Europe to meet the shortage expected this winter, and a reduced supply of crude to Europe would make refined products harder to get.

Since production is being cut back rather than exports, the effects of the decision may not be felt for several weeks. And the volume of production will decline very slowly if the reductions continue, since each month's cut will be 5 per cent of the previous month's production. But oil experts in Beirut predicted a major world oil crisis if the cuts continued for as long as four months.

Schuler Stumps Here for Bond Issue

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — A promise of definite and certain benefits to Ulster County, should the state's $3.5 billion transportation bond issue pass, was delivered Wednesday in Kingston by State Transportation Commissioner Raymond T. Schuler who said, "We have kept the faith with this region and now we ask you to keep the faith with us."

Schuler, who said the state "is not going to engage in a hard-sell, slick advertising campaign to sell the bond issue" outlined what he said Ulster County can expect to receive involving about $100 million as a part of the department's statewide program:

• Construction of the Ellenville Byway.

• Completion of the Kingston North-South Arterial.

• Improvement and extension of the Albany Avenue Arterial in Kingston. This would include Albany Avenue from about Foxhall Avenue to the railroad overpass and from the overpass to Route 199, with the latter segment to be constructed first.

• Modernization of the Kingston traffic signal system to improve the flow of traffic.

• Improvement of Route 28 from Kingston to West Hurley.

• Improvement of the By-Pass bridge over the Esopus Creek near Kingston.

• Reconstruction of Route 55 over Rondout Creek.

• Service improvements on the Catskill Mountain branch of Penn Central Railroad and retention of freight service on the Ulster County section of the Wallkill Valley Branch.

• Passage of the bond issue will mean we can save every mile of railroad tracks, including the Catskill Mountain Branch," Schuler said, "and rail passenger service can be restored."

Dem DA Candidate Charges Fraudmobile 'Bungling'

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON Charges of "criminal conduct and other unethical and improper practices" on the part of Ulster County District Attorney Francis J. Vogt's office have been lodged by Democratic candidate for DA Barry Lippman.

The Kingston lawyer said he has launched an investigation into what he calls "alleged corruption and bungling" in the district attorney's office and specifically accuses Vogt of using an automobile without the permission of the owner and the payment of public monies to a notoriously dishonest businesswoman in Ulster County.

Lippman was referring to an allegedly rented car, dubbed a "fraudmobile" which Vogt's office used in an investigation into automobile repair practices in Ulster County earlier this year. Lippman said that "this dealer cheated Countless numbers of Ulster County residents and Vogt knows it. To my knowledge, many complaints have been made about this dealer and Vogt has done nothing to bring him to justice."

Why? he asked.

The Democratic candidate charged that the district attorney's office "never even bothered to get the permission of the owner of the test car which Vogt used in the probe. If you or I were guilty of such conduct, we would probably go to jail," Lippman contended.

"It's not even a case of the ends justifying the means because Vogt's investigation didn't result in even one conviction," Lippman contended. Those who conduct the probe in such a manner that should be investigated," he maintained.

Lippman said that while Vogt claimed the purpose of the probe was to check dishonesty and violations of the law, the DA and his staff acted with total disregard and in flagrant violation of the laws of the state.

Lippman claims the "Fraudmobile" was rented from a car dealer who "didn't even own the car and had no right to rent it."

Vogt should have known this, he could easily have checked it out, he said, adding that the man who rented the DA's office car wasn't even in the car rental business. "If they (the DA's office) wanted to rent a car why didn't they do business with a legitimate businessman?" Lippman asked.

The Democratic contender also suggested that "from the manner in which the car was so suggested that it was not even covered by insurance . . . and that the vehicle was not properly registered and license plates were switched." Lippman said he has "sworn statements to back up his charges." He said "it is fortunate that none of the 'housewives' who participated in the repairmen investigation or other innocent parties were not injured or involved in an accident while using this particular vehicle."

Lippman charged further that public funds were used to rent the "fraudmobile," adding that he "doesn't understand how Vogt could question the honesty and integrity of so many Ulster County auto and television repairmen, as he did recently, when at the very same time Vogt was engaged in dealing with a man of disreputable character." Lippman said he regrets that he doesn't have "the same money and other investigative resources available" to him as the district attorney does, "because there are so many similar matters that should be carefully scrutinized."

"Perhaps the time is ripe for one of the state investigative agencies to investigate the Ulster County District Attorney's Office. They are apparently covering up criminal matters about which the public is entitled to know," Lippman concluded.

UFO Reports Could Cause Panic

By United Press International

A gigantic light show is beaming into space from the Texas Hill Country to attract some of the UFOs reported from coast to coast the last couple of weeks.

A psychiatrist calls the sightings flights of fantasy; but some people are not so sure.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, chairman of Northwestern University's astronomy department, said Wednesday a government agency should be set up to investigate UFO reports that "could set the stage for a panic situation" if they continue to multiply.

"At least somebody should keep track of what is going on—make a record of the reports and plot them on a map," Hynek said. "I wouldn't mind being sort of a Ralph Nader for UFOs for a while."

He said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration might investigate the UFO reports "if they had a directive from Congress to undertake it."

But the Association for the Understanding of Man isn't waiting for a directive from anyone.

The group set up a circle of 92 bright lights in the Hill Country to lure flying objects.

Dr. John L. Hall, a Dallas psychiatrist, said there are several answers to the UFO reports from at least half of the 50 states.

"First, some people are crazy," he said. "Second, some people have been known to lie. Third, they could be victims of genuine misperceptions of physical phenomena—like a mirage on the desert."

"And, fourth, you can't rule out the fact there may actually be terrestrial things that are a part of the unknowability of the universe, things outside our technical knowledge and which we can't possibly know."

In Texarkana, Tex., the police said two Hooks, Tex., women Wednesday night reported seeing an airborne object with red and white flashing lights and the letters "UFO" painted on one side.

The police dispatcher said there were also reports of sightings from DeKalb and Atlanta, Tex.,

Foulk, Ark., and other small communities.

A search was made but nothing was found.

L. J. Lorenzen of Tucson, Ariz., said Russian reports of radio signals received from outer space may be connected with the UFO sightings in the United States.

"The signals suggest there is extraterrestrial intelligence," he said. "Possibly it is an attempt to contact Earth while grass roots patrols are getting a closer look."

Fire Fighters Rap Statement

KINGSTON

Kingston Professional Fire Fighters Local 461 charged today that accusations by Republican Mayoral candidate William B. Merrill about the paid fire department are "totally untrue."

Stanley Chandler, president of the fire fighter union, responding to a statement by Merrill on Wednesday which suggested that volunteer fire companies had been left on standby until the arrival of paid men and equipment at the scene of the fire, said "Never had a more deceiving statement ever been made about the fire service. Never in the history of the paid department have volunteers been left on standby until a paid fire department vehicle arrived at the scene of the fire."

"We say to you William Merrill, get back on the right track and debate and discuss the real issues and stop trying to destroy the morale of one of the better fire departments in New York State," Chandler concluded in a statement authorized by the executive board of Local 461.

Probe Continues

Hurley State Police said today that there have been no new developments in their continuing intensive investigation into Monday's $10,000 armed robbery at the Bonanza Branch of the Heritage Savings Bank.

Four black males and one black female who were involved in the heist remain at large.

Nixon Wins One Round in Tape Battle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has won a round with Watergate investigators over possession of the secret White House tape recordings and he is going to the Supreme Court in hopes of winning another.

Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica dismissed Wednesday the Senate Watergate committee's suit to obtain the tapes and other documents on grounds the court lacked jurisdiction to settle the case.

Almost simultaneously, the White House announced it would appeal the ruling by the U.S. Court of Appeals, in Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox's suit, that Nixon must turn over the tapes for Sirica's inspection.

Both the committee and Cox are seeking the tapes to determine whether former White House Counsel John W. Dean III was telling the truth when he testified that he and Nixon had conversations about a Watergate coverup as early as Sept. 15, 1972.

"Because of its ruling, the court has found it necessary to consider only one question, that being whether the court has jurisdiction to decide the case."

The Court of Appeals in effect quire compliance," Sirica said, sustained Sirica's ruling in the Cox suit in its order last Friday. It gave Nixon five working days to appeal, which would expire on Friday.

In his discussion of the jurisdictional matters, Sirica did assert some presidential authority.

"Regardless of whatever duty the President may owe the select committee as a citizen of administration at the time of with evidence in his possession, the Dean-Nixon talks.

"Because of its ruling, the court has found it necessary to consider only one question, that being whether the court has jurisdiction to decide the case."

By dismissing it on these grounds, Sirica avoided the constitutional issues the case

Cox Seeking More 'Gift' Violations

HARRY HELTZER

3rd chairman pleads guilty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With three cases already chalked up, Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox is continuing his investigation of corporations and unions, looking for evidence of illegal political gifts.

Cox's staff Wednesday filed criminal charges against American Airlines, Goodyear Tire & Rubber and Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing (3M), accusing them of giving $125,000 to President Nixon's 1972 campaign contrary to a 48-year-old law barring corporate contributions.

All three companies and two of their officials promptly pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor charges and were fined by federal court judges in Washington, Cleveland and St. Paul, Minn. All had admitted publicly last summer they had made the illegal gifts.

"We also have under way investigations of some other illegal corporate contributions by 'non-volunteers' — cases where the parties have not come forward voluntarily," Cox said.

"We will be bringing charges in the weeks to come against other corporations and corporate officers, both 'volunteers' and 'non-volunteers,'" Thomas F. McBride, on Cox's staff, told reporters that about two dozen such cases are under active investigation, including some labor unions.

Federal law prohibits national banks, corporations and unions from contributing directly to political campaigns on pain of $5,000 fine. Persons giving or receiving such a donation may be punished by up to one year in prison and a $1,000 fine. If the violation is "willful," it carries the felony penalty of up to $10,000 and two years.

Both Cox and McBride stressed that those who have not come forward voluntarily or are uncooperative when tracked down will find the going tougher than American, 3M and Goodyear.

Cox said the felony charge might be brought in "serious instances" or cases where a contribution was given to improperly influence a government action or where evidence of other crimes was covered up.

Goodyear was fined the maximum of $5,000 and its board chairman, Russell de Young, $1,000. Henry Heltzer, board chairman and chief executive officer of 3M, was fined $500 and his firm $3,000. American was fined $5,000.

National Health Insurance Plan To Be Proposed Next Week by HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) will propose a national health insurance plan next week, which would compel employers to offer health insurance costing an average $600 each to 39 million families.

Under the plan poor, unemployed, disabled or otherwise uncovered persons would be eligible for health insurance President Nixon's Cabinet, the subsidies under a Government official said. These include but Assurance Plan (GAP) that are not limited to taxes on would replace the federal-state health insurance, increased Medicaid program for the income for Social Security taxes and a requirement that states pay part of the GAP financing method but will subsidies.

HEW will not recommend a present several options when the health insurance plan is presented at a meeting of health official:

—The Standard Employer Plan would cost an average of $600 per family with employers paying 75 per cent of the premium and workers 25 per cent. Families could turn down the insurance coverage, but employers would have to offer it. Or families could accept and supplement it with other insurance.

—An individual patient would have to pay the first $150 of medical costs each year with a cutoff of $450 per family and 25 per cent of the cost above that up to $1,500 in medical expenses.

Belgian Ambassador Freed

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Police in Havana Wednesday freed the Belgian ambassador, shooting and wounding the kidnaper who held him hostage for a day in the French Embassy in the Cuban capital while demanding passage to the United States.

The Foreign Ministry said the ambassador, Jean Somerhausen, was unharmed in the ordeal.

In Paris, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said the French ambassador was "safe and sound," but there was no word on the fate of his replacement.

The British Embassy in Havana relayed news of Somerhausen's release to the Belgian Foreign Ministry, the ministry spokesman said.

He said he had no further details of the action by Cuban police, other than that they freed the Belgian diplomat after shooting and wounding his abductor.

Somerhausen refused and the two men went first to the Swiss ambassador, then the French Embassy, where Anthonioz also was taken hostage, the spokesman said.

The Foreign Ministry said Somerhausen, 46, married with one child, is the only Belgian diplomat in Cuba.

The spokesman said De la Paz said he wanted to escape from the Communist-dominated island and seek refuge in the United States.

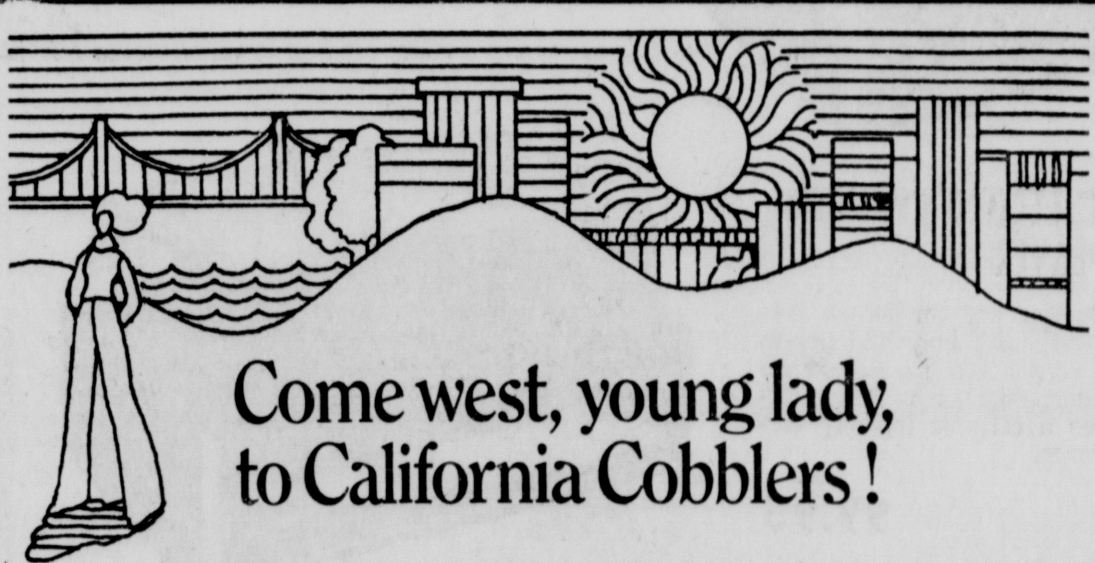

(In Washington, the State Department said it would back up its policy against hijacking if de la Paz arrived in the United States. "We should seek to enforce the anti-hijacking agreement we have with Cuba, and U.S. policy against hijacking," a spokesman said.)

A ministry spokesman said police intervened while the French ambassador, Pierre Anthonioz, negotiated Somerhausen's release with Cuban authorities.

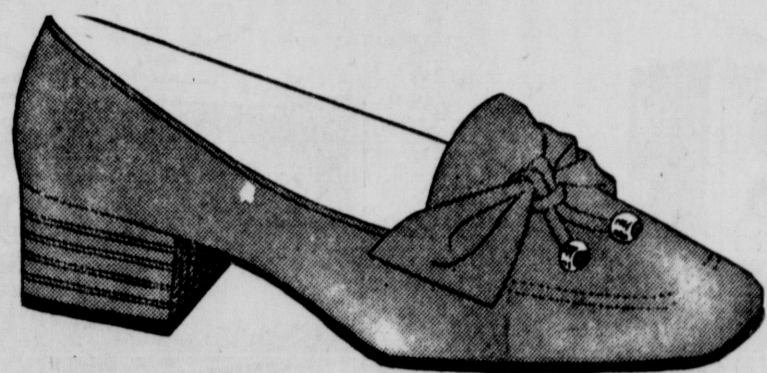

The spokesman said Anthonioz also had been taken as a hostage, but was released when an unidentified member of his staff agreed to take his place.

The kidnap, a Cuban identified as Miguel de la Paz, seized Somerhausen Tuesday and demanded to be taken to the United States aboard the ambassador's yacht, the spokesman said.

Pledge of Allegiance Controversy Boils in Shawangunk

By JON POWERS

WALLKILL A newspaper reporter's refusal to recite the Pledge of Allegiance has prompted one Town of Shawangunk trustee to threaten a personal boycott of future town board meetings — and may lead to official action in an attempt to ban the newspaper from covering future town board activities.

The reporter is Kevin Cothren, who writes for the Wallkill Valley World, a weekly newspaper owned by Hudson Valley Newspapers, Inc., of Highland.

The town trustee, who says he won't attend any future meetings unless the reporter recites the pledge to the flag, or unless the newspaper assigns another reporter, is Alfonso Sellett. A two-term Republican trustee, Sellett is employed in a maintenance capacity at the Ulster County Office Building in Kingston.

The dispute between the two sides began at the September meeting of the Shawangunk Town Board. According to Sellett, the reporter refused to recite the Pledge of Allegiance, and was generally "disruptive" during the brief pre-meeting ceremonies.

Sellett then asked the Town Board to draft a letter to the editor of the newspaper, requesting that Cothren be removed from his town board assignment if he continued to refuse to recite the pledge.

The issue remained quiet until last Monday's town board meeting. Sellett said the reporter waited outside the building until the pledge was completed, and then walked inside and took his seat. Sellett asked the reporter if he would have recited the pledge and, according to Sellett, the reporter said "no".

Sellett then asked the town board to adopt a resolution requesting that the reporter leave the meeting. The motion received a second from Town Justice J. Gregston Greer.

A discussion followed: a vote was taken and the motion was defeated. Sellett was the only town board member who voted in favor.

Sellett then walked out of the meeting, stating that he will attempt to have "Vietnam Veterans Day" recognized nationally as beginning to bear fruit.

Addressing the Ulster County Legislature recently, he told a dinner to be held in Washington, D.C. Jan. 30, 1974 take part in the upcoming plans Veterans Day a success.

Sellett said it would be fitting all interested groups will join in for the county legislators to in and make Honor Vietnam Veterans Day a success.

Sellett said it is "one day and only one day" to bring national recognition, honor and commendation to those who contributed to the understanding of the American dream and reinforcing the belief in the dignity of man.

added, "When Mr. Sellett asked said Wednesday, 'I'm 100 percent behind Mr. Sellett as far as the pledge is concerned. But I want to seek legal counsel before going so far as to ban a person from a public meeting in a public building. I'm still not sure of our legal rights, and I don't want to risk a possible lawsuit against the town until we're sure where we stand."

Garrison added, "The press certainly has a right to attend these meetings. But I definitely feel the person should show respect for the flag and the country." The Supervisor would not rule out the possibility that the reporter could be banned from future meetings once legal opinions are obtained.

Craig McKinney, Cothren's editor, said he never received correspondence from the Town of Independence — Thomas Jefferson—died on July 4, 1826, nation really stands for, which is freedom. Not freedom sometime, not freedom anytime, but freedom all the time."

In commenting on the incident, McKinney cited First Amendment provisions of free speech and free press, and then questions these rights leaves member of the American Legion, VFW and chairman of the author of the Declaration standing of what he was Honor the Vietnam Veterans.

Viet Vets Day Set March 29; Sellett Seeks Local Support

KINGSTON for the nationwide celebration of Sept. 10, 1970 proclaiming Shawangunk Vietnam Veteran to be held March 29, the anniversary of the last U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam.

Sellett said that President Nixon will issue a proclamation to bring national attention to the veterans of Vietnam.

Sellett said it would be fitting all interested groups will join in for the county legislators to in and make Honor Vietnam Veterans Day a success.

Sellett said it is "one day and only one day" to bring national recognition, honor and commendation to those who contributed to the understanding of the American dream and reinforcing the belief in the dignity of man.

Paltz Supervisor Gives Report

NEW PALTZ Theodore Lasher, incumbent New Paltz supervisor, and Republican candidate for that office, issued a press release Wednesday which he said was intended "to clarify" statements attributed to him in a Freeman report of a Republican press conference held Monday.

In the statement, Lasher said it was not former Supervisor Anthony Moriello who told him a deed was not required in Lasher's giving of three acres to the Town of New Paltz. The land was necessary for the rebuilding of a section of Jansen Road, which was then a town road and now a county road.

"Rather," Lasher stated, "it seemed a general consensus of the entire town board at the open board meeting of Aug. 14, 1968." He said the entire situation had been discussed openly at that meeting, with a formal motion made by Councilman Dominick Sfragola, seconded by Justice Rexford Schneider, and voted unanimously by the board.

Wendell Harp, the town attorney, was present at the meeting and did not suggest the need for a formal deed of the land, Lasher pointed out.

"After all," Lasher said, "what would I be able to do with three acres of land with a road on it, even though the town didn't have a deed."

The motion Lasher referred to stated that his (Lasher's) driveway would be relocated and graded by the town "because of the donation of the three acres of land." However, Lasher said at the press conference Monday that the work done on his driveway would have had to have been done for any town resident because the road work had made his driveway unusable.

Lasher, in his statement, also corrected an error in the Freeman story concerning the court date of the suit against the town by New Paltz Growers Inc. In the Freeman story it said the court date "was not set for December," though it should have read was now set for December.

The supervisor also pointed out that the Democratic candidates for town office had not filed statements of real property and corporate financial interests with the town clerk, and the information was not available to the public from that source. The Republican candidates have filed such statements. The Democrats made oral disclosure statements at a press conference also held Monday.

HONOR GOP CANDIDATES—Town of Ulster and District 2 Republican candidates (Town of Ulster-Town of Kingston) were honored at a reception in their honor recently at Ulster Hose Company. (L) Ulster Republican Town Chairman and Vice Chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee

Edwin Callahan; Guest Speaker, State Sen. Edwyn E. Mason; County Chairman Albert Spada; County Legislator Lester C. (Bud) Elmendorf who seeks reelection and Kenneth Whispell, Town of Kingston Republican Chairman who supports Elmendorf.

Mason Addresses Gathering

TOWN OF ULSTER
"Sometimes we take for granted the blessings we enjoy and although we are living in a critical time in history when disturbing things are happening in Washington, we must consider the state of our state, our counties and our towns," State Sen. Edwyn E. Mason (R-48th Dist.) told a large group of several hundred who attended a recent reception for Dist. 2 and Town of Ulster Republican candidates.

And, Mason said Republican incumbent Dist. 2 legislators Lester C. (Bud) Elmendorf and Richard Nace who represent the Town of Ulster and the Town of Kingston on the County Board are proven officials who have faced obstacles, some unsurmountable but who have done their best and serious best. The senator urged their reelection as well as the election of Republican candidate Stephen Hyatt who also seeks a seat on the Legislature in Dist. 2. "They are the men most fitting and best qualified," Mason said.

Concurring, Benjamin Schecter, vice president of the Republican City Committee, called the legislature the backbone of the community. He labeled this year's election "crucial" and urged the election of Elmendorf, Nace and Hyatt in order to continue to give the County of Ulster and Dist. 2 significant administration.

County Republican Chairman Albert Spada and County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago also urged election of the trio of Dist. 2 candidates as well as the entire GOP slate in the Town of Ulster headed by Supervisor Carmine Sabino. Among the many in attendance who addressed the gathering briefly were District Attorney Francis J. Vogt.

Candidate Levels Attack

GARDINER has stated on several occasions that the supervisorship is a full-time job. It is difficult to understand the rationale behind this statement since Mr. Majestic owns and operates a thriving hardware store, runs a bottled gas business and continues to devote less than full time to what Majestic has said is a full-time job.

"All this is carried on simultaneously while seeking another term as supervisor," said Williams. "As anyone can see, the supervisorship is not Mr. Majestic's sole occupation, nor is it the sole occupation of any official in Ulster County."

Williams said that Majestic had recently been quoted in the local press as being willing to give up the supervisor position if elected to the County Legislature. "Does this sound like a man who is interested in the people of Gardiner?" asked Williams.

Merrill Lynch announces a new mutual fund—for investors who seek more consistent growth in their investment program.

The Lionel D. Edie Capital Fund, Inc.

The objective of the Lionel D. Edie Capital Fund, Inc., is to make the investor's capital grow steadily in the inflationary environment of the 1970's. The fund managers recognize that rapid changes in inflation can have adverse effects on the stock and bond markets, requiring a flexible investment strategy.

In attempting to achieve this objective, the fund managers will try to make flexible use of three different kinds of securities. The three kinds are: money-market securities (such as commercial paper), corporate bonds, with emphasis on bonds selling at substantial discount from par value, and high-quality stocks.

The managers intend to emphasize various combinations of these kinds of securities, depending on which they believe will provide the highest total return under prevailing conditions.

In this way, the managers hope to achieve more consistent results than by relying solely on common stocks.

Lionel D. Edie and its subsidiaries are wholly owned by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc. — but are separately managed.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 18, 1973

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — The Agnew affair points up the limitations of investigative reporting. The bloodhounds of the press are expected to sniff out scandal in high places with little more to guide them than their nose for news.

Two years ago, for example, we investigated whispers that Spiro Agnew had pocketed bribes from Maryland contractors. We went into Maryland armed only with a notebook and a pencil. But a notebook is no substitute for a subpoena, and a pencil is a poor prod compared to the Justice Department's power to grant witnesses immunity.

We were told about the pattern of payoffs. We even dug out two witnesses who admitted to us they had slipped cash payments to Agnew. But in each case, no one else saw the money passed, and the cash couldn't be traced. Eventually, we laid our findings before Agnew but he categorically denied everything. The evidence simply wasn't sufficient to accuse the Vice President of the United States of a crime.

It took the Justice Department to do that two years later.

In contrast with Agnew, his designated successor, Gerald Ford, has a reputation for openness and honesty. Sources close to him say he won't accept cash contributions although he has a politician's constant need for campaign funds.

But we have never heard the slightest suggestion that he has ever diverted a dime to his own personal use.

ROBERT WINTER-BERGER
The closest to a political skeleton we have found in his closet was a bespectacled lobbyist named Robert Winter-Berger, who had been associated with fixer Nathan Voloshen and convicted House aide Martin Sweig.

We reported on January 27, 1970, that Winter-Berger "operated occasionally out of Ford's office." We stressed: "No one who knows Jerry Ford believes he would allow his name to be used by an influence-peddling ring. But in the back-scratching, favor-swapping environment on Capitol Hill, it is easy for a con man to take advantage of a congressman's potent name."

Two years later, Winter-Berger gave up lobbying and published his confessions in a book called "The Washington Pay-Off." He boasted of his dealings with Ford.

The Vice Presidential nominee has now made his files on Winter-Berger available to us. These show the lobbyist gained access to Ford on the recommendation of a trusted friend. The Congressman's late administrative assistant, Frank Meyer, arranged some routine political favors for Winter-Berger's clients, such as writing a Ford endorsement for an organization seeking to standardize the world calendar and recommending International Mining President Frank Kellogg for a diplomatic appointment.

At Winter-Berger's behest, Ford also arranged an immigration extension for a Dutch psychiatrist, Dr. Albert A. Buytendorp, to continue his research work in the U.S. In a thank you letter, Winter-Berger wrote Ford: "How wonderful it is to deal with your office. Everyone is also so eager to please, so correct and so efficient."

In return for these political favors, the lobbyist made a few nominal contributions to various GOP campaign chests. These donations ranged from $125 to $500. Ford thanked him for them in letters addressed "Dear Bob" and signed "Jerry."

It would appear that Ford's relationship with the lobbyist, although indiscreet, was not a serious scandal.

Footnote: Spiro Agnew once described Washington, D.C., as a "jungle," and declared fiercely it wasn't his jungle. He had just been elected governor of Maryland. I knew him well enough in those days to call him Ted. We talked as friends about his political future. I asked whether he might be looking beyond the State House in Annapolis to Washington 50 miles away. No, he said, he intended to stay out of that jungle. But the lure of power drew him into the forbidden jungle.

BIG OIL — The consumer-oriented Center for Science in the Public Interest warns in an unpublished report that the oil industry appears to be dividing America into separate geographic markets.

While Big Oil has always denied that it is carving up the country to control sales and prices, the Center observes in its new study that "the major oil companies (are) concentrating their market areas in certain geographic regions and disposing of their stations in other regions."

Exxon, for example, is building in the Northeast, Texas and Louisiana, but is bracing in Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Ohio, claims the Center.

Gulf is reducing in a vast area of the North Central and Northwestern states, where Texaco is expanding. Similar expansion and contractions are occurring with Standard Oil of Indiana, Standard Oil of Ohio, Phillips, Atlantic-Richfield, Conoco, Sunoco and BP.

The Center's study also shows how Big Oil undercuts its own dealers by using non-brand names to compete with "Independents" at lower prices.

The study recommends marketing at the pump only by independent dealers, a higher gas tax to force development of more efficient engines and a world police force to control oil pollution on the high seas by tankers and other ships.

Big Powers Must Act

One immediate and tragic effect of the latest outbreak in the Mideast is the threat to detente between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Up until the time of the shooting started, it appeared that a good working relationship had been established between the two major powers.

We had supplied Russia with badly needed grain at what later turned out to be great expense to American taxpayers. And American industry was gearing up in preparation for deals with the Communist nation.

The fierce war currently raging between Israel and the Arab states doesn't necessarily mean an end to whatever ties had been established between this country and Moscow but for the time being it could prevent the two nations from any closer association.

With so much at stake for the big nations, they can ill afford to remain neutral in the Mideast clash and almost from the outset it was evident where the sympathies lay. Russia and China, themselves at each other's throats in a Far East power struggle, thrust aside their antipathy to join in condemning Israel. The United States, desperate for the oil that comes from the wells in Arab lands, was more diplomatic. It implored peace from both sides and sought Security Council action.

But the Security Council which in the past has appeared to lean toward the Arab cause is in no hurry to act. As much as anything, this is a war of attrition. There still are no official casualty figures but both sides have lost heavily in men and materiel. The Arab states, however, can withstand the losses much better than tiny Israel. They are many times larger and many times richer. A long war favors them.

Ever so, Russia has begun to replace the mountain of weapons the Arabs have lost thus far, this despite the fact that Cairo unceremoniously ousted thousands of Soviet "advisors" many months ago.

Following an Associated Press report that scores of Soviet transport planes loaded with weapons and ammunition have reached Syria and others were on their way to Egypt, the United States started to resupply Israel.

This means that even though the big powers are not at war, productive capacities of the United States and Russia will be stacked against each other. And for the time being detente goes out the window.

And yet it shouldn't be so. Whatever gains Russia sees accruing to it from backing the Arab cause, it would benefit much more from detente with us. Hopefully that pragmatic approach is being considered in Moscow right now.

It's also possible that the Arab states, having "saved face" by successes at the outset of the fighting, could be more inclined to sit down at a peace table.

Meanwhile the fighting continues and the Security Council vacillates. It's a grim picture that only can be brightened if the big powers join in flexing their muscles to restore peace—in their own interests as well as the interests of all mankind.

Neighborly Central-Hudson

When big business acts neighborly, it should be commended. And Central Hudson's proposed donation of the property that housed a former High Falls generating plant to the Town of Marletown is one gift horse that doesn't have to be looked in the mouth.

The utility abandoned the generating plant two years ago, and the scenic beauty of the location, with its sweeping waterfall, has attracted many a nature lover. Located on the banks of the Rondout Creek along Route 213, the spot would make an ideal recreation center for Marletown residents.

In addition to donating the land free, Central Hudson has also offered to give a "large sum of money" for the town's use in developing the property as a recreational center. Central Hudson should be applauded as a good neighbor.

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

Concerning the war in the Mideast, a few observations:

1) Israeli military invincibility appears to have proved mythical. This is in part owing to the fearfully efficient new Soviet ground-to-air missiles which have cut up Israel's air force and seriously interfered with strategy that, in the past, has paid off so handsomely. At the other end, the Arabs are fighting well and effectively, and one report from the field says that their morale is extraordinarily high as they note that the Israelis are mortal.

2) On the assumption that the Israeli juggernaut of yore is reconstituted, what exactly is it expected to do? In 1956, there was an incarnate objective, his name was Nasser, and if in 1956 the Israelis had marched on into Cairo as they might well have done, they'd have known what to do: hang Nasser. But Nasser is now endemic. And even assuming that the Israelis were capable of a Carthaginian solution, it is questionable that they would resort to it, or that they would be permitted to resort to it.

Short of that — again, assuming Israeli superiority — there is the physical occupation of Damascus. But that, once again, would need to be temporary. To occupy and hold Damascus in the situation would be in the order of what Napoleon sought to do in Moscow. Moreover Damascus's loss, as a holy city, would unite the Arab world as nothing else has done, and this the Israelis are unquestionably aware of. To approach Damascus, to illustrate that it could have been taken without further effort—and then to withdraw, would surely be sufficient to prove the Israelis' point.

3) As we have so frequently heard during the past few days, the Mideast crisis will test the new diplomacy of the Nixon Administration. Suffice to say that so far the Soviet Union is satisfied. It has after all armed the Arabs, and supplied those dazzling weapons so effective against the Israeli air force. It remains to ask: what happens when the Israelis turn to the United States for replacement of lost tanks and airplanes. What happens when the United States delivers these planes and tanks? Will the Soviet Union, pari passu, deliver their own planes and tanks, keeping a gingerly balance? Thus the schematic of the situation, but of course things tend not to work that way, and this is the weakness of the Kissinger strategy: when certain kinds of people play chess, they end by overturning the table and hitting the opponent in the face.

How can the Soviet Union do otherwise? If the Israelis begin to make true headway, and this is likely particularly since Israel cannot survive a war of attrition, then the Soviet Union will almost surely threaten drastic intervention. What then are we supposed to do?

4) We are supposed to hope that the Arabs will suggest peace terms that are reasonable, at which point presumably we will pressure Israel into accepting them, which pressure will work or not depending on the acuteness of Israel's need of our aid at the moment. The Arabs' terms would almost certainly call for a return to the pre-1967 frontiers, and for huge indemnities for the Palestinians. It is perhaps paradoxical to think of the Arabs making demands at a moment of looming Israeli supremacy on the field. But they most likely feel a special strength they did not feel during the dark days after 1967. At that time the Egyptians were confident that their hold over the Suez Canal was critical to the good health of the West. This proved wrong, and meanwhile, American-Soviet detente apart, there were two crucial developments. The first was the energy crisis and the dawning recognition that whereas Israel's hold over the Canal was a paper tiger, the Arabs' hold of oil is, in a way, the ultimate weapon. The other development was,

5) Israeli diplomacy. Israel's hard line has paid off in the past. But a single deed, done not long ago, was arrantly opportunistic. That was the decision (decried within the Knesset) to develop the conquered territories in such a way that they could not easily be mistaken as the temporary shelters of an army that intends one day, when the peace is settled, to relinquish those territories.

Well, the Israelis are now diplomatically battered, and are worse off, from a bargaining point, than they were a month ago, and that is a pity. On the other hand it may get the diplomatic juices finally to running, and that is overdue.

Washington Calling

Agnew Case Cannot Be Repeated

By MARQUIS CHILDS
WASHINGTON — Rep. Gerald R. Ford's confirmation as Vice President is insured by the cozy, clubbable spirit that enfolds a 25-year veteran of the House of Representatives. But that should not foreclose a thorough inquiry into the sources of secret and unreported campaign contributions to Ford's Congressional races in 1970 and 1972.

By comparison with the big goblets of money fed into the Nixon campaign this is peanuts. Coming as the money apparently did from financial and industrial sources expecting favors or at least favorable consideration in return, this is one more example of the evils of the system of campaign financing by big money that reached a scandalous climax in 1972.

The Agnew case is in itself a sufficient warning for those who might want to let the Ford confirmation slide through. One of the mysteries out of that scandal is why the facts of Spiro Agnew's wheeler and dealing in Maryland were not brought to light when he was tapped by Richard Nixon in Miami Beach to be his running mate in 1968. Was the FBI asked to investigate? And, if they investigated, were the results of the investigation ignored?

The Agnew affair cannot be simply filed and forgotten, nor can anything he now says mitigate the bill of particulars filed by Attorney General Elliot Richardson with the Baltimore court. His sentence was a slap on the wrist. Compassion for a man disgraced in the second highest office in the land may have dictated the deal that was made with the Department of Justice.

But it will seem to many one more piece of evidence that the law means one thing for the powerful and the rich and another thing for the powerless and the poor. In a brief excursion into Middle America I heard comments such as this: "What would have happened to me if I had been guilty of evading my income tax? You know I wouldn't have got off as easy as that."

Ford has a respectable, if undistinguished, record in the House. As minority leader he has never wavered in his support of the Administration's foreign and domestic policies. This may be the function of the Republican leader in the swarming mass of the House — to me-too and to round up as many votes as possible. In helping to sustain the President's vetoes Ford has been the faithful Dutch boy with his finger in the dike.

One of the few initiatives he has taken was his effort to bring about the impeachment of Justice William O. Douglas. The minority leader rounded up close to 150 signatures on a resolution to impeach the justice who is about to equal the record of the longest service of any judge ever to serve on the high tribunal.

Promoting the Douglas impeachment, Ford said that the cause for removal could be any crime the House decided on. This opened a broad avenue, with special significance now that Ford is about to hold an office subject to impeachment. The principal charge against Douglas was his connection with the Parvins Foundation and the allegation that the foundation had ties with organized crime and the Las Vegas gambling casinos.

This whole matter should be thoroughly examined in the course of the inquiry into Ford's fitness to be Vice President. Did the White House back the impeachment move? The answer to that question could be very interesting.

Impeachment is not just an unthinkable process. It was put into the Constitution by the Founding Fathers as a legitimate means for the removal of corrupt federal officers. There was no other way a President or a Vice President could be removed from office.

With the Supreme Court soon to pass on the President's contention that he can refuse anyone the right to hear the confidential tapes he made of all White House conversations, impeachment will be very much to the fore. Justice Douglas will be one of the nine to pass on the confidentiality issue. The President has spoken of the force of a "definitive" decision by the court but he has never defined "definitive."

These are mind-boggling times, with war and the threat of a larger war just over the horizon. Ford cannot be considered an ordinary Vice President, a chair warmer as so often in the past. His influence as an inflexible conservative can extend far beyond the function of breaking a tie vote in the Senate. Clubbable spirit to one side, the country is entitled to know everything about Gerald Ford's past and present.

COFFEE FOR VETT—John Vett, Democratic candidate for New Paltz Town Councilman, is shown at a recent coffee conducted for him at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Baisler. Earlier in the week a similar coffee was held at the home of

Mr. and Mrs. George Bond. At the coffee, Vett stressed his concern with increasing taxes, growth and traffic. More such meetings are to be arranged in other areas of New Paltz.

Court Ruling Affects Law

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPD)—The state's highest court has struck down a section of the election law which bars candidates for local offices from being listed as the nominee of both a major party and an independent group. In a unanimous decision Tuesday, the state Court of Appeals struck down a lower court ruling upholding the law.

The only Ulster County candidate to be affected under the new ruling is Gardiner Supervisor George Majestic. A Democrat seeking reelection as Associate Judge Charles D. Breitel, the Republican candidate for the court's chief judge, took no part in the decision. Since his nomination, Breitel has not acted on any election case.

In its decision, the court said there was no doubt that the legislature had the power to enact "reasonable laws and regulations" concerning elections, but "it is equally as well settled that the legislature cannot enact arbitrary exclusions from office."

The court noted that while the law barred the candidates from receiving independent listing it made no provision blocking the Democratic candidates from also being listed on the ballot as Conservative party nominees.

"Surely there can be no lawful or rational justification for a statute that allows one candidate to accept the nominations from two different political groups, while at the same time denying another candidate for the same office the same opportunity," the court said.

The law preventing separate listing for an independent nomination "grants an obvious advantage to a candidate who receives and accepts the nomination of more than one party," said the jurists.

The law did not prevent candidates for statewide or judicial offices from being listed on the ballot under an independent party line as well as a major party designation.

Paltz Justice Hopeful Accuses GOP Incumbent

NEW PALTZ reminded him of the law, but Alan Sussman, Democratic candidate for town justice in New Paltz, Monday charged Republican incumbent Rexford Schneider with "willfully disobeying the law of New York" in keeping his official books away from public inspection.

According to Sussman, state law requires justices to keep records of their court and have them always open to public inspection. Sussman said he tried to see Schneider's books, and

"Just last weekend the Court of Appeals declared that Richard Nixon, although the elected President, is not above the law's commands."

"The same should be true of Justice Schneider. Although elected by the people, his position does not give him the power to flout the law as though he were above it. A judge, especially, should realize that he should make his records available to the public as the law demands."

Independent Slams Marijuana Stand

WOODSTOCK Alan D. Van Wagenen, independent candidate for town justice, has taken issue with his Democratic opponent's position regarding first offender marijuana laws.

"I find that his (Democrat Kevin M. Sweeney's) primary issue will apparently be 'everybody gets a second chance.' I also notice the most interesting aspect of our local justice (according to Sweeney) is the diversity of those who appear before the court . . . Nonsense."

"Who says that 'everyone' is entitled to a second chance when he transgresses the law. Our legislators have very carefully enacted legislation which may release a marijuana offender if he has no previous criminal record, and even then the adjournment is only in contemplation of dismissal which provides that the offender must not violate the law for the ensuing six months. This particular legislation was enacted to provide a second-chance to persons who are not criminally inclined, but who made an error in judgment for which they should not be permanently punished via a criminal record. The legislation was not enacted to provide carte-blanche permissiveness to 'all offenders' who might decide to live outside the laws of our state. It is a purely judicial function and is granted only at the discretion of the court and should be carefully and discreetly administered," Van Wagen said.

"The Democratic incumbent believes that the diversity of persons appearing before him creates a challenge to his court. . . . Granted, the challenge is there but it certainly is not one to be accepted without reservation. True, Woodstock is a community unlike almost any other because of the diversity of its citizens, however, we must all come to grips with the elements of our community who would destroy the fundamental rights of others to live in privacy and be secure in their homes. We must condemn those who would turn our town into a 'sanctuary' for free spirits."

Grand Jury Indictments

The Ulster County Grand Jury today handed up murder indictments against William Due no, 21, of 1000 Trinity Avenue, Bronx, and George Carter, 21, of 31 East Parmenter Street, Newburgh.

Dueno is accused of the Aug. 19 strangulation murder of Consuelo Norma Reyes, 37, also of the Bronx, at a Plattekill resort.

Carter, who was also indicted on a charge of first degree robbery, is accused of the stabbing death and robbery of a Newburgh cab driver, Edward Pascoe, 64, in Marlboro Aug. 28. Both men are being held without bail for later County Court appearances.

Clarification On Goertz Stand

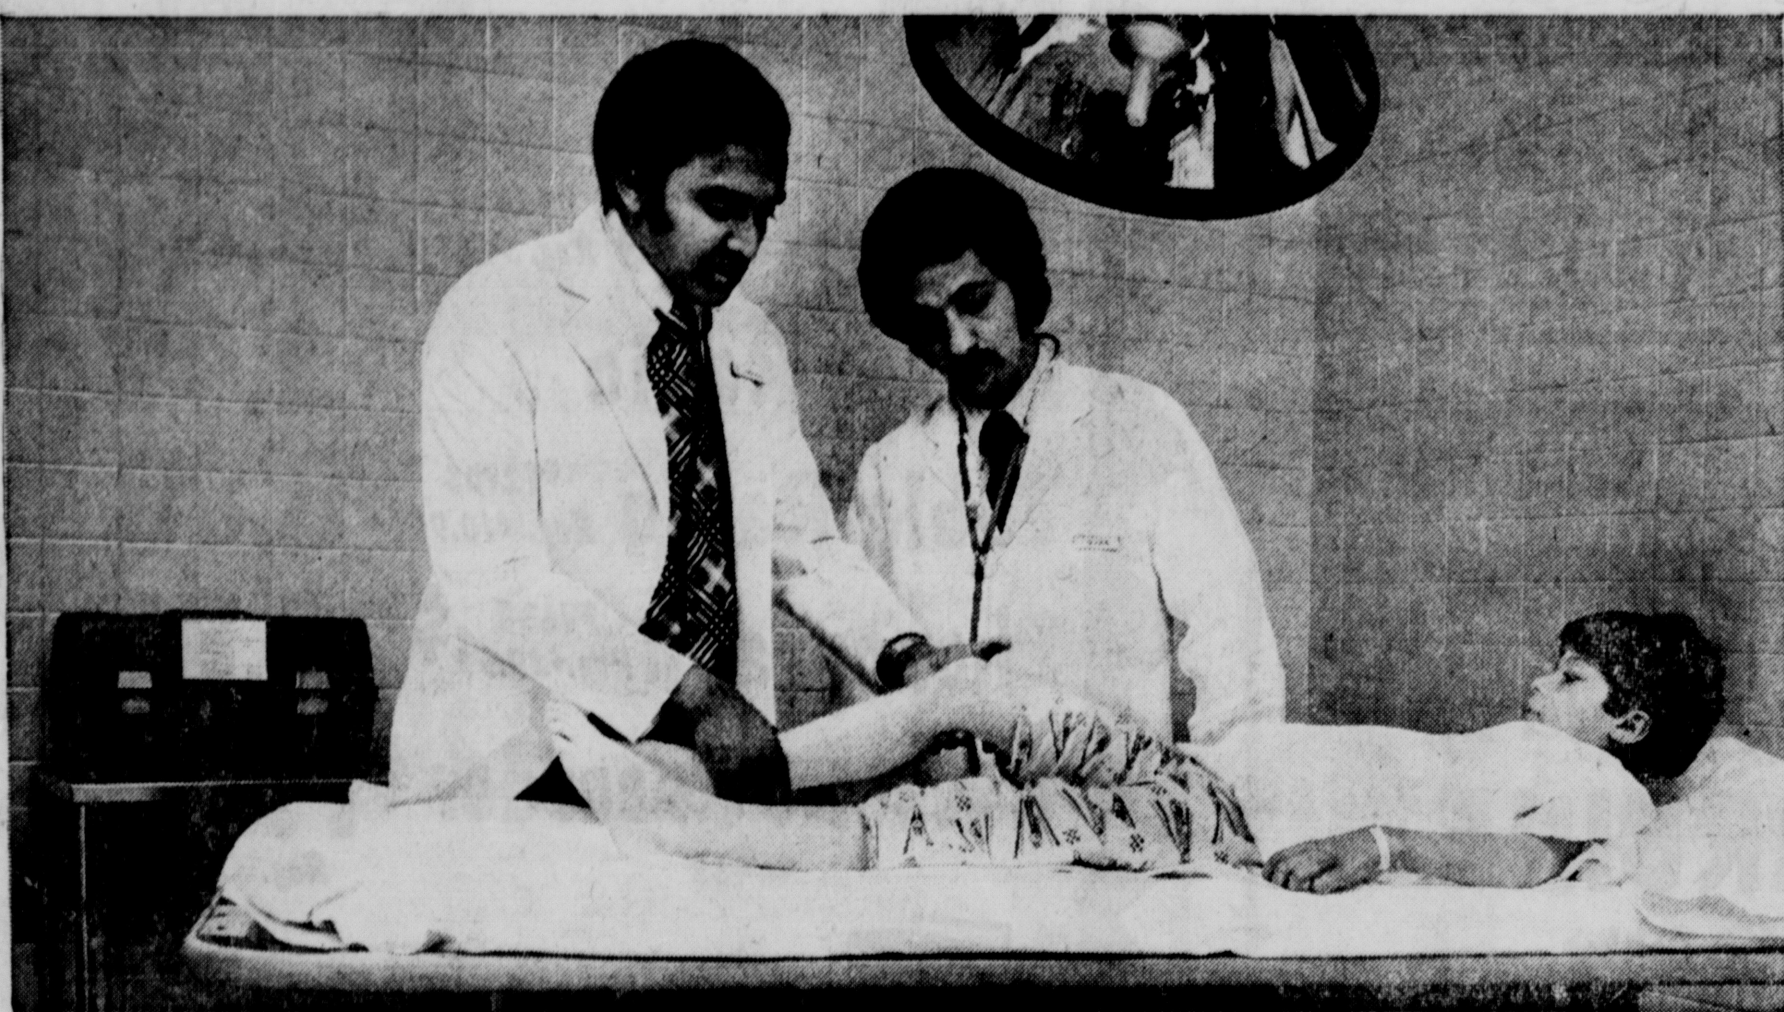

SAUGERTIES
Republican candidate for supervisor, Charles Goertz, stated in a press release in Wednesday's Freeman that he was "not an experienced politician, I am an experienced administrator and businessman." It was inadvertently reported that Goertz had said he was not an experienced administrator. Goertz, in fact, has been running on his record as an experienced administrator and businessman in the three-way race for supervisor in Saugerties. He is opposed by A. Michael Schovel, the incumbent on the Independent ticket and Paul Miller, the Democratic candidate.

Candidates Night

Aaron Bahl, Carmine Sabino, and Robert Sledge, the candidates for Town of Ulster supervisor, will appear at a Candidate's Night on Thursday, Oct. 18 for an informal question and answer session. The program, sponsored by the Halcyon Park Civic Association, will begin at 8 p. m. at The Hitching Post (Elmer's Inn). The public is welcomed and is advised to have questions prepared in advance to ask the three candidates.

Dismiss Welfare Case

The case against Mrs. Helen Oliver of Ellenville, charged in connection with the giving away of food stamps to pay for the boarding of her grandchild was dismissed by the Ulster County Grand Jury recently. Mrs. Oliver was not arrested however. The charges were lodged by the Ulster County Welfare Department rather than a police agency.

FULL SERVICE BANKING FOR A BUSY DOCTOR OR THE HARRIED NURSES.

Banking Chase Manhattan can be the right prescription for people on the run.

Take Chase checking. It's the easy way to un-complicate the money in your life.

Regular checking. For people who write a lot of checks.

Special checking. For people who write just a few—50¢ a month and 10¢ for each check.

There are also savings certificates. How about 6.50% interest. Minimum $1,000 balance. Money kept on deposit for two-and-a-half to 10 years gets the full interest.

Too long? Then try 6.00% interest. Minimum $1,000 balance. Money kept on deposit for one to two-and-a-half years gets the full interest.

Still too long? Earn 5.50% interest. Minimum $1,000 balance. Money kept on deposit for at least 90 days gets the full interest.

And regular savings. You get 5% compounded daily from day of deposit to day of withdrawal for a 5.13% yield on a balance of $5 or more.

And Chase has many convenient ways to borrow. You might want an instalment loan for a car, a home improvement loan with up to five years to pay, or any other personal loan with a good reason behind it.

There's Chase BankAmericard®. It takes three minutes, and there's no co-signer, no history of your life. If you don't have a card, you can get one from Chase. No fee.

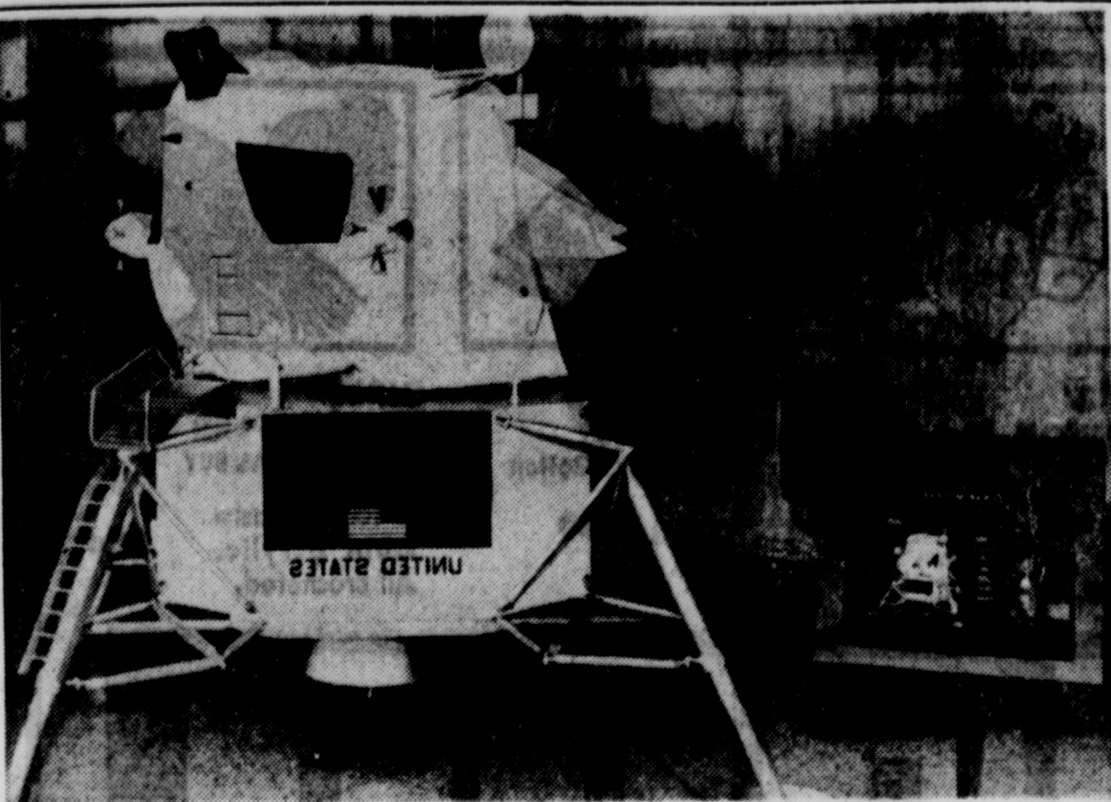

So whether you're the doctor, the nurse, a telephone operator, or a store manager, Chase Manhattan can be a super fringe benefit for people who work hard and long hours.

Whatever you do for a living, you have a friend at Chase Manhattan Bank of The Mid-Hudson

Main Street & Simmons Plaza
Saugerties, New York 12477

Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate.

Women Favor Army

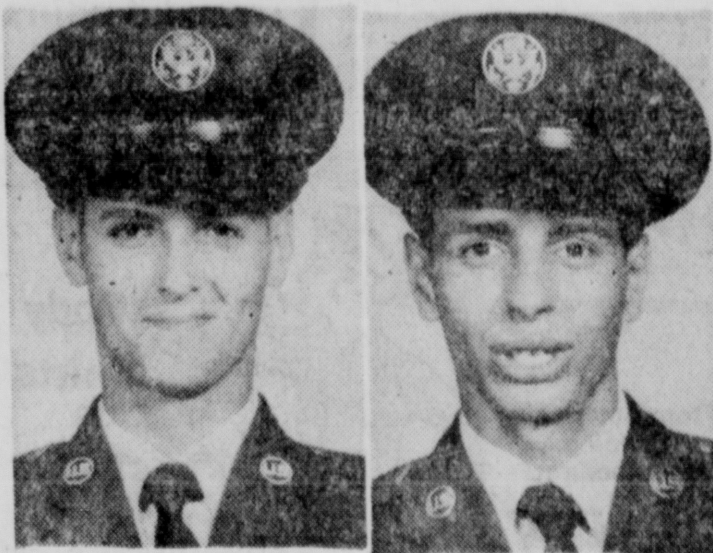

KINGSTON More than 26 per cent more women enlisted in the Army during the latter half of the Army's last fiscal year than enlisted during the first half. Sgt. John Fitzpatrick, the Army's representative in this area, contends the increase resulted in several policy changes adopted by the Army within the past year. "The Army has a new assignment policy for its married couples when both are in the Army," Sgt. Fitzpatrick said. "Effective last Spring, the Army will assign its couples to the same location whenever possible. The Army realizes it has an investment in these people and understands it must keep them happy, and together, to realize dividends."

KINGSTON for them to receive their benefit checks on schedule. With the checks being sent directly to the bank, they are assured of receiving their funds safely and promptly. Persons in hospitals, or bedridden at home, too, have found it a convenient way to handle their financial affairs while they are confined. To arrange for this service a person must sign an agreement empowering their bank to endorse and deposit the VA benefit checks to their personal accounts. This power of attorney is filed with the bank and the VA advised of the agreement. Arrangements for assigning power of attorney to a local bank can be made through the local counseling center of the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs located at County Office Building, Kingston, N.Y. office hours: Monday through Friday — 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Better Safe Than Sorry Persons receiving VA or other government financial assistance have long been the target for thieves and con men bent on relieving them of their benefit checks. A convenient way for veterans to avoid losing their benefit checks, or having them stolen is to have them mailed directly to their local banks for deposit to their individual accounts. This procedure has proven helpful to persons who travel or have frequent changes of address, making it difficult

'U.S., Soviet Union Must Show Restraint'

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Danish Middle East war must end to see that it does, source said earlier this week quickly and that the Soviet The source said the Soviet Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Com- that Soviet leaders believe the Union and the United States position on the Middle East was a general secretary.

Heavy Hardware Losses

BEIRUT (UPI) — Losses of hardly have lasted another 10 days at its present pace. There simply would not have been the arms and ammunition to fight it. The Arabs claim to have shot down a total of more than 550 Israeli planes since Oct. 6, were not for the aid now substantially more, in fact, pouring in to both sides, first from the Soviet Union to the Arab side and now from the United States to the Israeli side, the war could assessments.

Arabs Holding Off Israeli Air Force

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The Israeli air force has not scored the smashing successes that the public expected of it before the war. Official contentions that the air force could make quick work of the Arabs in any outbreak of fighting have proven inaccurate.

New Arab tactics and Soviet-supplied anti-aircraft weaponry are the reasons why. They have worked to good advantage for the Arabs, especially on the Egyptian front.

It is a longer war as a result. The new Arab tactic is simple: Do not put your planes into the air against the Israelis unless absolutely necessary. Send them on short ground support missions and get them home and into underground hangars quickly. Dogfights are suicidal.

Rely instead on the new equipment, the Soviet-supplied surface-to-air missiles known as SAMs, a mobile missile capable of downing attacking warplanes both at high and at low altitudes.

Israeli officers have said virtually none of their planes has been lost in aerial combat and all of them to the missiles. Foreign reports put the number of downed aircraft near 100.

There have been dogfights, to be sure—Israel has said its pilots have been knocked down about 100 Egyptian warplanes and 160 of Syria's 210-plane air force.

That means at least Egypt still has planes to commit to the fight as opposed to the 1967 Middle East War when its air force was virtually wiped out on the first day.

The Israeli answer to the Arab tactic is to bomb the Egyptian and Syrian airfields so that the planes that are left cannot take off. But such damage can be repaired overnight by quick working crews.

The answer to the missiles is the United States is mounting an urgent airlift to Israel of bombs, rifle and tank ammunition and rockets designed to knock out the radar that guides Egyptian missiles, U.S. officials said today.

Tanks and planes are being sent to Israel also, but officials said they were not needed as urgently as simple ammunition which the Israelis are using up at a rapid rate in a war which is now in its 12th day.

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana called Tuesday for a six-power summit conference to end the war.

And the State Department, moving to calm possible fears of U.S. involvement, announced that there was no intention of introducing American forces into the fighting.

Mansfield said, "One Vietnam is one Vietnam too many." He spoke as the war powers resolution, limiting to 90 days any American involvement in foreign hostilities without congressional approval, sat on the desk of President Nixon, who has said he will veto it.

Mansfield's summit proposal involved the United States, the Soviet Union, United Kingdom, France, West Germany and Japan. There was no immediate response to it.

Mansfield said the problems generated by the war "can spread far beyond the Middle East... Only the Lord and Allah know where it is going to end."

The American resupply effort began Sunday and has thus far involved more than 50 flights of cargo planes, U.S. officials said.

A few fighter planes and M60 tanks have been flown to Israel and more will arrive later. Some were seen Tuesday being loaded on ships in Norfolk, Va., but they will not arrive for about a week.

Explained Tuesday night by visiting Danish Premier, Joergensen is said to have inferred that the Soviets are ready to guarantee the Middle East frontiers prior to the 1967 war. No mention was made during the meeting of Soviet or American weapons deliveries to the combatants, the source said.

According to the source, Brezhnev told Joergensen if the two super powers do not show restraint, there is the risk that political contacts between the two nations will be made more difficult or blocked.

The Soviet leader did not mention any joint moves with the United States aimed at ending the war but gave the impression that Moscow and Washington were in constant touch on the matter, the source said.

In fact, it has been noted that in the past few days air activity has fallen off markedly. Arab claims of the number of Israeli planes shot down have been cut back drastically.

Military experts say it could well be that both sides are being forced to some extent to husband their resources until the new supplies from the Soviet Union and the United States start really flowing into the pipeline.

Penn Central Abandonment

'Devastating to Businesses'

By MATT SPIRENG

KINGSTON

The possible abandonment of the Walkkill Valley and Catskill Mountain Branch lines of the Penn Central Railroad Company could mean the closing and relocation of major businesses along those lines.

Both segments of the Penn Central were closed Tuesday when new federal track safety standards went into effect, but later in the day the Federal Railroad Administration granted a temporary reprieve under which Penn Central, if it wishes to keep the lines open, must file plans within 30 days to bring them up to standards.

Representatives of firms along both branch lines have indicated that they can only count on service on a day-to-day basis for the next 30 days. And after that, none of them know for certain.

Gus Bachman, general manager of Interstate Bag Company Inc. in Walden, has been keeping a close watch on the situation. "I'm totally dependent on rail for all our raw materials," Bachman said. "The status of the line is not clear at this point. We have gotten no clarification from Penn Central as to their intentions."

The ultimate effect (of the closing of the Walkkill Valley Line) will be devastating," Bachman said, adding that he is optimistic that some plans will be developed to keep it in operation. Aaron Monansky, president of the Walkkill Valley Rail Users Association and president of Ajayem Lumber Company in Walden, said if the line is closed it could mean firms that depend on rail service for their supplies would have to relocate in other areas where rail services is available.

Both Modansky and Bachman indicated their firms will strongly oppose closing of the Walkkill Valley line which runs from Kingston to Montgomery.

Dick Lutz, owner of Lutz Feed Company in Roxbury, said closing of the Catskill Mountain Branch, which runs from Kingston into Delaware County, "would certainly raise heck" with his business.

"We depend on the railroad for all incoming grain shipments," Lutz said.

"The situation would be desperate," said Don Demarest, owner of A. W. Demarest and Son a feed and grain supplier in Stamford. "Anyone continuing in the feed business in the area would have to contemplate relocation."

Ironically, while according to the Federal Railroad Administration's track safety standards the Catskill Mountain Branch should be closed down—and was on Tuesday—the Interstate Commerce Commission has forced Penn Central to keep that line open while it considers a request for abandonment from Penn Central.

But the Catskill Mountain Branch of the Penn Central may still be saved through the efforts of the Catskill Mountain Transportation Corporation, which has been formed by area residents in hopes of purchasing the entire branch line and running it.

CMTC is currently negotiating with Penn Central for a lease agreement under which CMTC will rehabilitate the line at least partially prior to obtaining ownership.

Harris Gordon, chairman of the board of CMTC, said that if a lease agreement is reached in 30 days it would apparently satisfy the requirements of the Federal Railroad Administration when it granted the 30-day reprieve.

Meanwhile, State Transportation Commissioner Raymond T. Schuler has issued a statement claiming his department has been influential in obtaining the exemption for Penn Central to continue using the substandard lines. Penn Central says it cannot presently afford to repair the lines. Schuler said something must be done to defend the economic life of the regions served by the lines and to prevent the loss of jobs by people who work in industries dependent on freight service.

OIL IN HUDSON — Several thousand gallons of thick black crude oil were spilled into the Hudson River at Albany when a barge hit a submerged object and ruptured. A floating boom has contained much of the spill and clean-up operations are under way at the Texaco dock where the accident happened. (UPI)

Show Cause Is Signed In Registration Case

By WADE BURKHART

NEW YORK CITY

The New York Civil Liberties Union (NYCLU) had an order signed in Federal Court Wednesday requiring Ulster County and its Board of Elections to show cause why they should not be enjoined against the county's present policy concerning the registration of college students, according to an NYCLU spokesman.

Arthur Eisenberg, the NYCLU lawyer who is handling the case on behalf of students who were denied registration in New Paltz as part of a student voter registration drive by the Committee to Register Students (CRS), said the case will be argued next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in Federal District Court in New York City.

The order was signed by Federal Judge Charles Brieant, Eisenberg said. Students denied registration at New Paltz were asked to sign affidavits to that effect by the CRS. The CRS had mounted a campaign to register students in New Paltz from the State University College at New Paltz, maintaining that recent court rulings had given students the right to vote where they went to school.

Ulster County Election Commissioners Edwin L. Callahan and John J. Hogan have both cited Section 151 of the Election Law of New York State which says no one can either gain or lose a residence by attending an educational institution. Ulster County, under their direction, has refused to register college students from New Paltz unless they can establish what it considers residence, such as being married and employed.

Eisenberg said Wednesday that the NYCLU was not going to challenge the state law "at this time," but was going to argue that whatever the state law, Ulster County's policy about registering college students was "clearly unconstitutional."

There have been many cases throughout the country, he said, similar to the action against Ulster County, and that students had won the right in court to vote where they went to school in such states as California, Michigan, Connecticut, Texas, New Hampshire, Indiana, and Ohio.

Eisenberg said that there had been a number of similar cases in New York as well, but that they had had "mixed results." The NYCLU will be seeking a declaratory judgment against the county enjoining it from continuing its present practices against registering students, and an additional registration day for students before the Nov. 6 elections as well, Eisenberg said.

Both Callahan and Hogan have said that while they cannot under the law register students in Ulster County who go to New Paltz, it is the policy of the Board of Elections to help them with registering in what the Board of Elections considers their home districts and with obtaining absentee ballots.

According to Eisenberg, eight affidavits of students denied registration in New Paltz were submitted with the NYCLU's original complaint, filed last week, and that "many, many more" would be submitted when the case was argued next Wednesday.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE
POP MUSIC IN THE SHANK
OF THE EVENING . . .

Dear Heloise:

Do you have buttons with shanks that keep cutting the thread, and in an emergency you use a safety pin? Instead, take those wire twistends from bread wrappers to close them.

Take the plastic covering off (your fingers will do the trick) and push the end of the wire through the material and button shank and back through the material to underside.

Twist wire ends together and then twirl the wire around to make it neat. Button is secure again.

Beats sewing regularly.

Mrs. M.S.

Dear Heloise:

When I was a working wife, my coffee breaks and lunch hours were sometimes spent scanning the newspaper and reading my women's magazine. Since I sat at my desk for these activities, my scissors was always available for clipping coupons and cutting out articles or recipes worth saving.

Now that I'm home taking care of a baby, and sneak a break whenever I can, I've discovered it's easier in the long run to first reach for my scissors and then start my reading.

No more ragged-edged coupons, torn recipes from ripping hastily or, most important, no more forgotten items because I'll cut it out later when I get my scissors and throw the paper out!

Rita Intihar

Dear Heloise:

We recently had a crowd over who happened to drop in at supertime on a Sunday. It took nearly five pounds of hamburger to make enough hamburgers for them.

Knowing that it would take my mother hours to put out that much meat, I told her to mix it all together and flatten it at desired thickness. Then, take a glass with a mouth as big around as she wanted the patties.

All she had to do was cut them like cookie dough, she had all of the meat fixed in thirty minutes.

What a bright idea, now mother has something else to add to her list of reasons she loves you so much!

LETTER OF CHAGRIN

Dear Heloise:

Last Sunday when I got ready for church, I had on my little white gloves and was fumbling around in my bag looking for something and was having so much trouble with my gloves on that I got to laughing and decided that:

When you need to find a certain page in phone directory, church hymnal, etc. and have on gloves, the pages will flip right next to the number you need and if you have on a glove, you can seldom ever separate the pages.

But when gloves are off, the pages nearly always stop the right page — especially if you are trying to turn pages in your Bible.

Jill Oblate

Dear Heloise:

Did you know if you sprinkled a little flour on your potatoes before frying that it helps keep them very crisp?

Square Dancing in Hurley Friday

Lefooters Square Dance Club will dance on Friday at the Hurley Reformed Church Hall, off Route 209, to the calling of Jerry Schatzer of Hopewell Junction. Dancing will start at 8 p.m.

Jerry Schatzer is originally from the Midwest and was graduated from the University of Missouri in 1968. After graduation, he moved to Poughkeepsie to work for IBM as a chemist. He developed an interest in square dancing 13 years ago and has been calling for the past 11 years. While in college, he was caller for his own club in Columbia, Missouri, and filled guest dates for other area clubs and for campus dances. He resigned from IBM two years ago in order to devote full time to square dance calling.

JERRY SCHATZER

Schatzer is currently the caller for five clubs, two in Connecticut, two in New York and one in New Jersey. He is also an accomplished round dance caller and has two intermediate round dance groups, one in Poughkeepsie and one in Grahamsville. Guest calling appearances have taken him throughout New England, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. Schatzer is a widely known caller having served on the staffs of the Heart of America Festival in Missouri and of the Square Dance Center in Chicago. He has called at four National Square Dance Conventions plus several New England Square Dance Conventions and Connecticut Square Dance Festivals.

The Lefooters are looking forward to his appearance on Friday. All area club level dancers are invited.

Don't Want a Divorce? Then Forgive and Forget

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are both 53. We have three married, college-educated children any parents would be glad to claim.

My wife and I married very young. (Shotgun wedding.) We are well off and respected in the community, but here's the problem:

My wife never worked outside the home. She spent all her time raising her children, and she did a fine job. About six years ago I caught her and the insurance man kissing in our kitchen. She swore it would never happen again. Two years later I caught this same man kissing her in the parking lot at a V. F. W. party. Again she swore she would never see him again. Last summer I caught them again. This time there was a big fight, and she confessed they had been seeing each other for six years, three afternoons a week!

She doesn't want a divorce, and this man (also married) doesn't want one either. I don't really want one.

Do I love her? No! I could walk away from her and never look back, but I'm too old to start over.

How do other men who have been in this boat handle a situation like this?

NO NAMES, PLEASE

DEAR NO: How other men handle such a situation may be of no help to you. You need to decide how YOU want to handle it. Talk it over with your wife. It will take a lot of forgiving and forgetting, and forgetting what you forgave to keep your marriage intact. You say you are too "old" to start over! Plenty of men would give a lot to be 53 again. Life is short. Make it sweet.

DEAR ABBY: Since our second child was born, our 3-year-old daughter has been helping me immensely by answering the phone when I am busy. She speaks quite clearly, and answers the phone with, "Hi, my mommy is busy with the baby, but she is coming now."

Some people hang up as soon as they realize a small child has answered. Our daughter is so proud that she can help Mommy in this way. It takes only a few moments to listen to her, and makes her so happy.

Maybe your printing this letter will make some people more tolerant of a small child who answers the phone.

BUSY YOUNG MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Maybe. But maybe not. Youngsters answering the phone is the

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(c) 1973, Emily Post Institute, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post:

About a month ago, a young couple moved next door to us. A few days after moving in, the young man asked if he could ride into the city with us because his car was being repaired. We agreed that we could accommodate him.

He is still riding with us. I asked him if his car was working satisfactorily now, and he replied that it was working fine. I then mentioned that we sometimes like to do other things after work and don't always want to come home, and he replied that on those days he would take his car.

I want my husband to tell him directly that this arrangement cannot continue, but he feels that we should be good neighbors. I feel that we have been good neighbors long enough and that he is taking advantage of us.

Mrs. Conway
I am inclined to agree that he is taking advantage of your kindness. Etiquette never demands that one should be a patsy. Your husband should be quite blunt.

There are several alternatives. He might say, "Jim, now that your car is fixed, how about using it next week and giving ours a rest?" If his wife needs their car, your husband could say "We're happy to have you ride in with us, but let's start a kitty to pay for the gasoline and tolls. And if you really prefer to commute alone, you have a right to that, too. In that case, one of you must be completely frank. 'Jim, we've enjoyed getting to know you, but Mary and I find driving in and out is the best time to make our plans and settle our problems, and we'd really like to commute by ourselves.'"

Dear Mrs. Post:

In a recent column you recommended "Affectionately" or "Love" as informal closings for personal letters. Another way to end a letter without seeming too intimate or too formal would be to simply write "Yours" followed by the signature. I do that all the time.

Helene
Thanks — "Yours" is an acceptable ending when you feel "Affectionately" or "With love" may be too intimate.

Whom do you tip? When, and how much? You will find the answers to these questions in my booklet "The Etiquette of Tipping." To get a copy, send 35 cents in coins, to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman.

WONDERFUL WORLD OF FASHION

A TOP ENTRY in the Blue Bonnet Early American Recipe Contest, this rich Lemon Pie with Almonds makes a simple but elegant dessert.

Lemon Pie Is Variation of Early American Favorite

Pie is the all-time favorite American dessert. The variations are endless, from a warm lattice-topped cherry pie to lemon meringue or chocolate cream. Some pies are typically American as pumpkin, apple or pecan. Others now popular in this country had origins elsewhere, and were brought to America by the early settlers, or immigrants in later years.

Chess pie, a British favorite, later became popular in the New England and Virginian colonies. Originally it was made with eggs, sugar, fruit juices, raisins, nuts and spices. In the South, lemon juice was used most frequently, but the raisins, nuts and spices were omitted. This is the version of chess pie best known today.

The popularity of chess pie must have been due in part to the simplicity of its ingredients. Sugar, butter, eggs, and lemons were staple items, but together they created a very elegant dessert.

Lemon Pie With Almonds is a unique variation of the traditional chess pie. The secret is a thin layer of strawberry jam between the crust and the sweet lemon filling. Sliced almonds and a sprinkling of sugar add a decorative touch to this enticing pie which was among the top 10 recipes in the Blue Bonnet Early American Recipe Contest. The aim of the contest was to update an old-fashioned recipe with modern ingredients. The results here are superb! A treasure from the past, this rich lemony pie is sure to become a family favorite.

Lemon Pie With Almonds

One (eight-inch) pastry shell, baked and cooled

One-fourth cup strawberry jam
One-third cup Margarine
Three eggs
One-half cup sugar
One tablespoon grated lemon peel
Two tablespoons lemon juice
One-fourth cup Planters Southern Belle Sliced Almonds Line bottom of baked pie shell with strawberry jam.

Melt margarine over low heat. Set aside. Beat eggs with sugar. Add lemon peel and juice. Beat in warm melted margarine just until blended but not frothy. Stir in almonds. Slowly pour mixture into prepared pie shell.

Bake at 350 degrees F. 25 to 30 minutes, or until knife inserted between center and edge of pie comes out clean. If desired, lightly sprinkle top of cooled pie with sugar. Makes one eight-inch pie.

All's Well That Ends Well ...Especially at Lunchtime

Anybody can join the Lunchbox Brigade and nearly everybody does, sooner or later! But the daily wrap-up can put a strain on your ingenuity. It helps to put something in the box that is not only satisfying, but lets them know you're thinking of them, too!

Naturally, you'll start with a protein-filled sandwich. Lunchmeat, peanut butter, cheese, or egg salad are all protein-rich fillings and not too expensive. Carrot, celery, and green pepper strips are all good sandwich partners.

Let Junior take an apple to the teacher, and make sure he has one for his own munching, too! Add a thermos of milk, and you have a lunch that is as good to eat as it is nutritionally balanced.

For dessert, tuck in a surprise such as these Caramel Fudge Squares. They're made with the same crunchy, sweet peanut butter cereal that's so beloved at the breakfast hour.

Caramel Fudge Squares

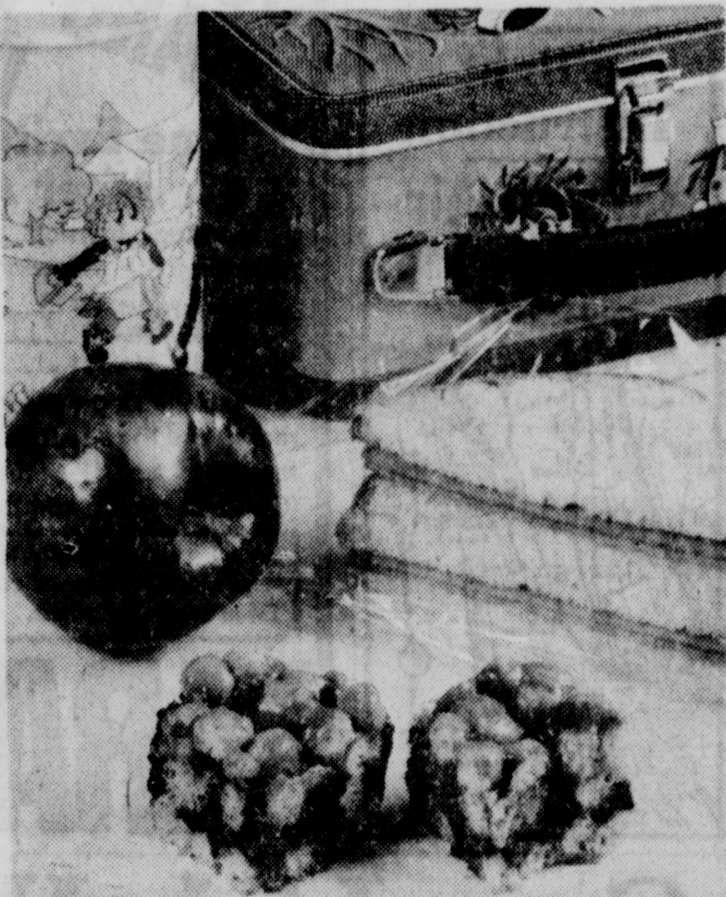

Make 25 squares
Five cups crunchy, sweet peanut butter cereal
One 14-oz. pkg. caramels
Three tablespoons water
One six-oz. pkg. (one cup) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
One-half cup sifted confectioners sugar
Two tablespoons butter or margarine
Two tablespoons water

Pour peanut butter cereal into a greased large bowl. Melt caramels with water in top of double boiler over hot (not boiling) water, stirring until smooth. Remove from heat. Pour caramel mixture over cereal, stirring until evenly coated. With greased hands press half of cereal mixture into a greased eight-inch square pan. Chill while preparing fudge mixture. Set aside remaining cereal mixture.

Combine chocolate pieces, sugar, butter and water in top of double boiler over hot (not boiling) water, stirring until smooth. Spread over chilled cereal mixture. With greased hands, press cereal mixture evenly over top; press gently. Chill several hours or overnight. Cut into squares.

YOUR LUNCH TOTER will know you're thinking of him when he finds a Caramel Fudge Square inside.

Tiny Tips

Bread Crumbs

When soft bread crumbs are made from slices of fresh white bread, the crumbs should be removed from the bread before crumbling.

Add Cornmeal

Cornmeal, added to flour for coating meat, poultry or fish before frying, gives a crunchy texture.

Add Sugar to Yeast

A small amount of sugar is usually added to non-sweet yeast breads because the sugar hastens the working of the yeast.

Cooked Spinach

Dress cooked spinach with a little lemon juice and sour cream.

Tasty Pancakes

Finely chopped apple and bits of crisp bacon may be folded into pancake batter. Serve the pancakes with butter and maple syrup.

Canned Pimiento

Canned pimiento may be mixed with mashed potatoes. Finely dice the pimiento before adding.

Lumpy Gravy

When your gravy is lumpy you can whirr it in the electric blender for a smooth result.

Staub's Hurt... Oakland Feels the Pain

THE HEROES — Mets' pitcher Jon Matlack (L) puts his arm around Rusty Staub after the two teamed up Wednesday night to defeat Oakland, 6-1, in game four of the World Series. (UPI)

'Polar Bear' Mets Defy the Elements

While everybody at Shea Stadium was watching the summer sport dressed in their winter clothes, the Mets left-handed pitchers and Rusty Staub defied the elements.

"I grew up pitching in this weather," said southpaw Jon Matlack, a native of Westchester, Pa. "We didn't see a lot of it this season, but it doesn't bother me."

Matlack made believers of 54,817 fans, who were bundled up in the 51-degree temperature that was more suitable for a meeting of the polar bear club than a baseball game.

The hard-throwing Matlack shackled the A's on three hits, ran his string of innings in which he hasn't yielded an earned run to 23 and stopped Oakland 6-1. The 70th World Series is now even at two games apiece with a sixth game now a certainty in the sunny, warm climes of Oakland.

"I didn't mind the cold weather," said Ray Sadecki, who relieved Matlack at the start of the ninth when Jon's arm stiffened up.

"Jon might have had more trouble," said Sadecki, who gave up two singles and a walk, but shut the door by fanning Tuesday night's hero, Bert Campaneris, to end the game.

Staub, the only player on the field who was not wearing a sweatshirt under his uniform, must have sent shivers up the spines of the A's pitchers.

HR TROT — Rusty Staub rounds bases after first inning home run. (UPI)

He strode out of the heated Mets dugout five times and got on base every time. The first time he touched all the bases, circling them after blasting starter Ken Holtzman for a first-inning three-run homer.

"I haven't hit the ball out since I hurt my shoulder," said Staub, who injured his right shoulder colliding with Shea Stadium's right field fence in the fourth game of the National League playoffs against the Cincinnati Reds.

Staub's homerless streak ended none too soon for Matlack, who pitched six innings in the series opener and lost it on two unearned runs.

"That homer relieved the pressure," said Matlack. "It's easier to pitch with a one-run lead than be 0-0. You can be more aggressive. You're not afraid to make a chancey pitch."

The Mets, 11th in the National League in regular season homers, have now hit four while the supposedly power-hitting A's have none.

"I hope Rusty stays hot," said tonight's starting pitcher, Jerry Koosman, who also throws baseballs with his left hand.

"I think he's swinging the bat great. I can't see his shoulder bothering him too much. Maybe that was just overplayed for Oakland."

Having a hot Staub on another expected cold night is just what Koosman wants. "I like the cold weather. I'm from Minnesota, you know. I feel very confident," said Koosman, who lasted just 2 1/3 innings in Sunday's game, in which New York rallied to win 10-7 in 12 innings. "I've only pitched one game this season as bad as that one."

NEW YORK (UPI) — The World Series is all even again due in large measure to a husky, heavy-set young man with curly red hair who believes like the late Vince Lombardi — "You've got to play with your little hurts."

Rusty Staub goes a little further.

He plays when he's hurt more than a little, and frequently he does even better than those who are completely healthy as was the case Wednesday night when he drove in five runs with a homer and three singles while leading the New York Mets to a 6-1 triumph over the Oakland A's.

Staub's heroics squared the series at two games apiece and made today's fifth contest a pivotal one in which left-hander Jerry Koosman will go for the Mets and Vida Blue, another southpaw, for the A's.

The contest will be a pitching rematch of Sunday's wild 12-inning spectacular, won by the Mets 10-7, that led to Mike Andrews' being banished by owner Charlie Finley. Koosman didn't survive the third inning and Blue didn't make it through the sixth so both are well rested.

"It's you guys who put all the pressure on this," Blue said to newsmen. "I just go out there and throw the ball. Why, you're all wondering how I'll pitch Staub. Well, I'll just put it over the plate and if he hits it, he hits it."

Blue, who became soured by his sudden rise to stardom in 1971 and the subsequent contract hassle he had with Finley, now acts blasé about most things.

"If I don't pitch well," he said, "I may wind up as the quarterback of the Jets." Blue was a high school football quarterback star before he cast his lot with baseball—and Finley.

The A's have to ignore all the turmoil swirling over their heads if they are to bounce back. "I hope this whole mess is over now," Reggie Jackson said.

First, it was the Andrews' situation. He was fired and reinstated and he got two standing ovations from the Met fans when he grounded out in a pinch-hitting role in the eighth inning Wednesday night.

Then there's the Williams' situation. Manager Dick Williams is said to be quitting—win or lose—at the end of the series.

But the A's are trying to put this out of their minds for another few days.

"It's an even series and we got Vida and he's due for a good game," said second baseman Dick Green, "if we can just go out and play baseball."

The Mets, though, feel that things have swung their way. "What we've got going for us is past experience," said Bud Harrelson. "We didn't die when we fell behind before and we didn't do it this time, either."

What the Mets really had going for them in the fourth game was Staub. The Mets are taking a chance with him in the lineup because he can't throw but team physician Peter LaMotte smiled, "we took a chance and we won. We're going with his bat."

Staub, who injured his shoulder in the fourth game of the playoffs against Cincinnati, gave the Mets a 3-0 lead in the first inning with his opposite field homer off Ken Holtzman after Wayne Garrett and Felix Millan had singled.

Staub then gave the Mets a cushion with a two-run single in the three-run fourth inning. That was all that Jon Matlack, who went eight innings on the chilly night, needed to wrap it up. Ray Sadecki struggled through a bases-loaded crisis in the ninth for the save.

Staub's four hits made him the 35th player—and second of the series since Reggie Jackson did it in the second game—to accomplish this in a World Series.

One of them was Joe Garagiola, the noted quipster, who smiled, "now I know how Babe Ruth feels with his record being challenged."

Staub did his best to downplay the fact he's playing in pain. "I really don't want to go into that," he said, "because it really has nothing to do with the game. And a lot of guys play in pain."

But it had to be quite satisfying for Staub, who's been plagued with severe hand injuries in his two seasons with the Mets.

"A lot of people got down on me and said the injuries weren't going to heal," he said. "But I think they're believing now." The Oakland A's are.

Are the A's Concentrating?

NEW YORK (AP)—The Oakland A's say their manager, Dick Williams, is quitting after the World Series and that they're still mad at owner Charles O. Finley for "firing" infielder Mike Andrews.

So it's a little hard to believe when they say the controversy isn't affecting their play in the deadlocked Series with the New York Mets.

Andrews rejoined the team Wednesday at the direction of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. He immediately held a news conference and said he had been under extreme duress from Finley when he signed a statement saying he had a bad arm.

Williams wouldn't say he was leaving, but second baseman Dick Green and others confirmed that the skipper told the team in a meeting Tuesday that he would quit after the Series—win or lose.

"He did say: 'I won't be back next year,'" Green said, "and if we repeat it, he'll deny it." Williams did deny it.

There was speculation that Williams would become manager of the New York Yankees, succeeding Ralph Houk, who went to the Detroit Tigers.

"I haven't talked to them. They haven't talked to me," Williams said. "Right now I am the manager of the Oakland A's and that's it. Next year is next year."

A Yankee spokesman said tersely: "Williams is under contract to Oakland."

Finley was quoted Wednesday night as saying he would not stand in Williams' way if the Yankees made an approach. He said Williams is under contract through 1974.

The Minneapolis Tribune quoted Finley as saying "There's a certain amount of glamor to working in New York. Maybe this interests him."

The A's were in a state of personnel conflict. Outfielder Reggie Jackson reiterated that "I want to be traded. I'd love to play in New York."

Third baseman Sal Bando said: "If I got traded, I wouldn't be disappointed."

But through it all, the A's claimed to be oblivious as far as their on-the-field war with the Mets is concerned. "It will have no affect on the team," Green said of Williams' expected resignation. "Most of us knew it was coming three or four weeks ago."

Williams said before the game that he didn't think the Andrews affair would affect morale. He inserted Andrews as a pinch-hitter in the eighth inning and Andrews got a standing ovation from the crowd, both before and after he grounded out.

"It was great, just great," he said of the ovation. "I've never had one before. I should have acknowledged it when I went to the plate but I was just concentrating on getting a hit."

A newsman asked Williams what Finley would say if Andrews was used as a pinch hitter. "Mr. Finley doesn't run this ball club on the field. I don't know," he said. "That do," Williams said. "Mr. Finley will take a lot of thinking."

tends to his business and lets me tend to mine."

Despite his reinstatement, Andrews said he did not expect to be back with the team next year. "As for retiring, well, I don't know," he said. "That do," Williams said. "Mr. Finley will take a lot of thinking."

A's Lack Long Ball

NEW YORK (AP) — The Oakland Athletics have no home runs from their hitters and no complete games from their pitchers through four World Series games.

Yet they'd have you believe they've got the New York Mets right where they want them going into tonight's fifth game of the Series.

"When we don't have any homers in four games, it means we're ready to bust out with a whole bunch," said Sal Bando after Wednesday night's 6-1 loss to the Mets which left the teams even with two victories apiece in the best-of-seven set.

"Even though we're not a team that plays for the big inning, the fact that we have no homers has been important," said Manager Dick Williams.

The A's showed more regular-season power than the Mets, led by Reggie Jackson's 32 homers and Bando's 29. But the Mets have four homers in four World Series games, including Rusty Staub's blast over Shea Stadium's left-center field fence in the first inning Wednesday night.

"He hit a fast ball down the center of the plate, belt high," said pitcher Ken Holtzman, who didn't finish the first inning.

Holtzman was the A's hardest working pitcher this year, working about 300 innings. He had some rough outings late in the year, but won an 11-inning playoff game and pitched five good innings in the World Series opener.

"When you're tired like I am, you're hot one time and don't have anything the next," said the left-hander.

Williams is counting on Holtzman being hot in his next start—if it's necessary. It would be the seventh and final game of the Series.

"We've got Vida Blue ready for Thursday night and, because of the off-day Friday, a well-rested Catfish Hunter for Saturday," he said.

Senators Place Third, Not Fourth, in NJCAA Tournament

Ulster Cagers Benefit From Hutchinson Forfeit

By IRA FUSFELD

STONE RIDGE

Ulster County Community College is going to have to give up the fourth place trophy it won at last year's National Junior College Athletic Association basketball tournament in Hutchinson, Kansas and make room in its Senate Gym showcase for a new and larger one.

The 1972-73 UCCC team is about to benefit from a rules infraction by second place Hutchinson Community which will force the runners-up to forfeit all its games and enable the teams that finished below the Kansas five in the NJCAA tourney to move up a notch.

Thus, third place Olney, Ill., takes over the No. 2 spot, and Ulster, which defeated Platte, Neb., Dalton, Ga., and North Greenville, S. C., and lost to eventual champion Mercer, N.J., to earn its fourth place ranking, now becomes the third-ranked junior college basketball team of 1972-73.

Hutchinson's forfeitures are based on the disclosure Monday that its star six-foot-ten-inch center Rudy Jackson had not graduated from high school. The discovery was made by the Missouri Valley Conference of the NCAA which was making a routine records check of its member schools. Jackson was to play at Wichita State of MVC this year.

NJCAA rules state that a junior college must forfeit all its games in which an ineligible player participates whether or not the school actually knew about the infraction.

"Our rules are very specific," NJCAA Executive Director George E. Killian, told the Freeman. "I checked Jackson's records myself yesterday. They were forged beautifully."

Wichita State Athletic Director Ted Bredehoft said a student assistant to WSU's basketball coaches, Steve Shalin, a native of New York City, admitted he had falsified Jackson's high school trans-script. Bredehoft explained that Shalin and Jackson met and became fast friends while Shalin assisted the high school basketball coach at New York's John Bowne High School which Jackson attended.

Shalin, who had worked as a student assistant at WSU since Sept. 1972, urged the recruitment of Jackson. He has since been censured and dismissed.

Bredehoft hoped that Jackson, whose financial aid has been terminated as a result of the discovery, will remain at Wichita State.

"The young man was advised wrongly," he was quoted by United Press International. "He knows he did wrong. Why destroy him?"

Meanwhile in Hutchinson, Killian said the local junior college was planning to make an official statement Friday.

"This thing has hit this town like a bombshell," he remarked.

The Kansas city, approximately the same size as is Kingston, has been holding NJCAA tournament since 1952, and its residents consider basketball in general, and Hutchinson Junior College basketball in particular, as its No. 1 sport. Hutchinson regular season home games drew better than 80,000 fans last year, the most of any junior college in the country.

Local residents frequently take Hutch's imported players into their homes, and Jackson, who made the NJCAA first team All-America list, was a special favorite.

That the final page of Jackson's Hutchinson career has ended in disaster, has obviously created a atmosphere in the community that may well take years to overcome.

But Hutchinson's misfortune is to Ulster's advantage as the Senators of Jackie Knowles, Coleman Link, Henry Nixon, Ike Chestnut, Val Williams and the rest can now claim that they were the third best junior college team in the country in 1972-73.

Vizvary 'Amazed' At Soccer Rating

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON

Ulster County Community College is now No. 2 in the NJCAA's weekly poll of soccer teams, the highest ranking ever achieved by a UCCC team in any sport.

"I'm amazed," said Senator Coach George Vizvary. "I didn't expect us to go this high."

But it was only the recognition Vizvary didn't expect, not the results. The poll was based on Ulster's first six wins, but the Senators have since won four additional games to turn their record to 10-0.

Meramec County CC, the defending national champion and the leader in the rankings until this week, dropped to third place after losing a 3-0 decision to Blackburn College. Mercer CC of New Jersey, second last week, was elevated to No. 1.

The remainder of the top ten includes CC of Baltimore, Baltimore, Md., fourth, Essex CC of Baltimore County, Md., fifth, Miami-Dade JC North, Miami, Fla., sixth, Florissant Valley CC, St. Louis, Mo., seventh, SUNY Alfred, N.Y., eighth Orange County CC, Middletown, ninth, and Berkshire CC, Pittsfield, Mass., tenth.

Ulster has four games left before regional competition begins, and three of those contests should provide the Senators with a test. Farmingdale, a strong team this year, comes to New Paltz Saturday. After that comes a breather with Sullivan then a pair of undefeated opponents, Staten Island and Bronx.

"We're still a long way away," Vizvary pointed out. "But I suspect we will make the regionals. The worst we can do is 10-4. Our goals, in order, are to win the Mid Hudson Conference, then the regionals, then go to the nationals."

Ulster will not have to win the Region XV tourney to make the national tournament, however, because of the region's strength, the top two teams will make the trip to St. Louis.

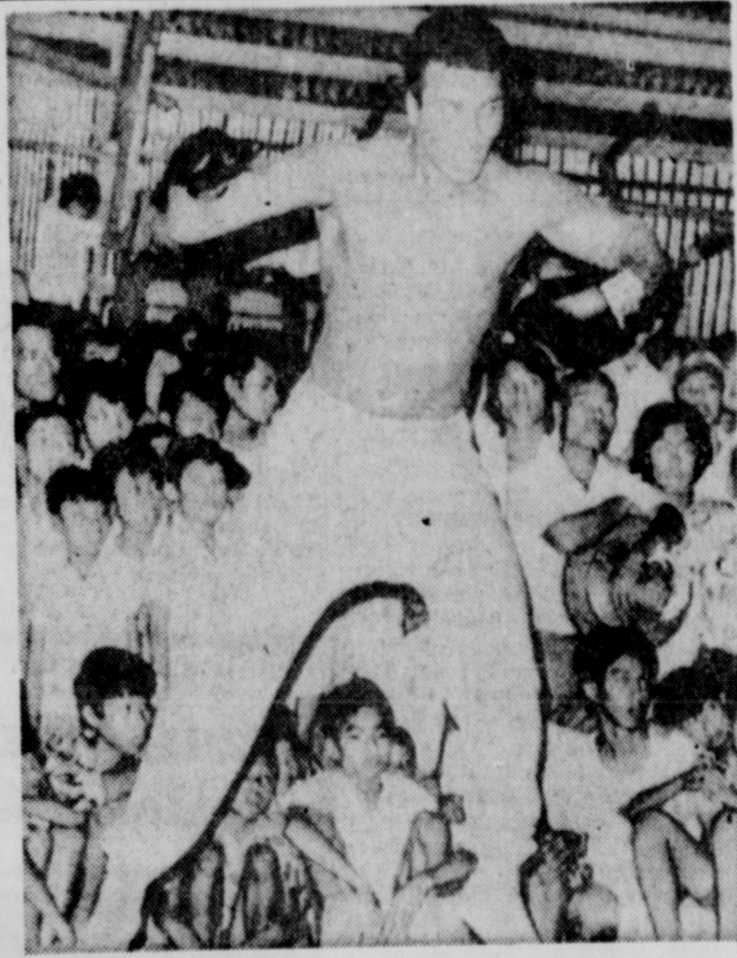

Ulster's chase of Mercer, which began last winter in basketball, will have no chance of resolution before the national tournament. Both schools have firm schedules, which do not include the other, and there is no inter-regional play prior to the St. Louis showdown.

"We may play Mercer next year," said Vizvary referring to a possible pre-season exhibition, but he wasn't optimistic. The Vikings' schedule is inferior to the Senators, and, Vizvary observed, most opponents don't like to face the possibility of defeat, even in a non-league encounter.

Physically, Ulster's personnel is sub-par at the moment, but all hands should be ready by the time the Region XV tournament rolls around. Byron Cordero, Region XV's leader in goals and assists, was the latest casualty, having strained ligaments in his ankle in the Westchester game.

That incident pointed up a comment Vizvary once made to this reporter. "It is a shame," he said, "that a team ranked as high as we are gets so little support and recognition."

He meant that through five years of soccer the Senators still do not have a field to call home. They are forced to play home games at New Paltz, a factor that reduces spectators to practically none at all. On top of that, UCCC has been relegated to a secondary field at the State University. That indirectly accounted for Cordero's injury as he stepped in a tire rut while on the run and twisted his leg painfully.

LIBERING UP — Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali limbers up for his non-title bout with Dutch champion Rudi Lubbers Saturday in Jakarta, Indonesia. More than 1,000 fans crowded the training hall to watch the ex-champ work out. Ali meets Joe Frazier for a long-awaited rematch on Jan. 28 in New York City's Madison Square Garden. (UPI)

Meadow Stable Sets Finales For Secretariat, Riva Ridge

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretariat will end his racing career in Canada just like Man o' War did more than 50 years ago.

Secretariat, known to his fans as "Super Red," will make his farewell appearance Oct. 28 in the Canadian Championship at Woodbine in Toronto, trainer Lucien Laurin said Wednesday. In 1920, Man o' War, thoroughbred racing's legendary "Big Red," beat Sir Barton in a match race at Kenilworth in Windsor, Ont., in his last start.

Terms of a record $6.08 million syndication, call for Secretariat to retire from racing no later than Nov. 15 and go to stud. Riva Ridge will go to stud under a $5 million syndication. The day before Secretariat's last start, Riva Ridge, a 3-year-old and up Sec-Ridge, will race for the last time in the Jockey Club Gold weights.

KHS, Spackenkill Play to 1-1 Tie

Kingston High School's soccer team missed its big opportunity to move up a notch in the DCSL race Wednesday as a fourth period penalty kick by Frank Cohen salvaged a 1-1 tie for host Spackenkill and kept the Spartans a game ahead of the third-place Maroons in the standings.

Saugerties waited until the sun went down to face Roosevelt's eleven, and under the lights and in front of 400 spectators in Hyde Park, the Spartans took home a 2-0 shutout. In other league action, Arlington remained in first with a 1-0 victory over Rhinebeck. Poughkeepsie stayed in fourth place by walloping Ketcham, 6-0, and Webutuck belted John Jay, 3-1.

KHS coach John Hunter claimed no excuses. "They are a good team, and they fought hard," he said. But so did the Maroons who took a 1-0 lead in the second period. The goal, by Bob Graves, came off an indirect kick after an obstruction was charged to the Spartans. Steve Kantor started it rolling, and Graves blasted a shot through a poorly formed Spackenkill wall at 4:08.

The game was mostly a mid-field affair until a questionable handball call gave Spackenkill a penalty kick at 4:40 of the fourth quarter. Cohen made it count.

As the score reflects, the statistics were fairly even. Kingston's edge in shots-on-goal was 16-15 while each team had four corner kicks. Vince DeLuca, who did an outstanding job in

Gilbert Still Seems Upset

NEW YORK (AP) — Rod Gilbert, calling his one-game benching "a nasty thing," says the misunderstanding between him and New York Rangers' Coach Larry Popein "is straightened out." But he still appears upset over the disciplinary action, although he is not showing it on the ice.

The veteran right wing, in his 12th National Hockey League season, didn't let his personal problems affect his performance Wednesday night as the unbeaten Rangers skated to a 4-0 victory over the St. Louis Blues.

He scored the 27th goal of his NHL career, putting him within one of equalling the club record held by Andy Bathgate. "You've got to play the game to score," Gilbert said after.

"... Just around the corner"

In case of rain.

Suppose tomorrow turned out, unexpectedly, to be that proverbial rainy day. If you had to withdraw your savings tomorrow, would you get tomorrow's interest, too?

You would with a Heritage day-of-deposit to day-of-withdrawal account. This is the simplest way to save — and the handiest for meeting unexpected money needs. Your money starts earning interest the day you put it in. It keeps right on until the day you take it out, just so long as you keep a balance of $10. Your day-of-deposit account pays 5 1/4% annual interest. Leave it there all year, along with the earned interest, and you'll get an effective yield of 5.47%. But if you do have to make a withdrawal in a hurry, isn't it nice to know you don't lose any interest? A small ray of sunshine for a rainy day.

RON JOHNSON

Ron Johnson Here Monday

If you want to find out first hand what's happened to the New York Giants and the physical status of ace running back Ron Johnson, you'll have your chance Monday from 5 to 8 p.m. when Johnson visits the Kingston Plaza Shopping Center to sign autographs and present prizes to the winners of the Plaza's Punt-Pass contest, which will be held that afternoon.

Johnson will be stationed at the booth between the Plaza Barber Shop and Walgreen's, according to John E. Konz, President of the Kingston Plaza Merchants Association.

The hard-running Johnson, who is in his sixth pro season, has been troubled by leg problems in recent weeks. His appearance against Washington last Sunday was his first since the second week of the season.

Last year Johnson had his best season as a pro, gaining 1,182 yards, his second plus 1,000 yard campaign. He scored nine touchdowns rushing, and added five more receiving. He caught 45 passes in all, for 451 yards.

An All-American at Michigan, Johnson was Cleveland's first round draft choice for the 1969 season. He was traded to the KINGSTON Giants in 1970 along with Jim Kanicki and Wayne Meyland for Homer Jones. It was in that season that he gained over 1,000 yards for the first time and was named to the All-Pro team and to the Pro Bowl.

Ron's brother Alex is an outfielder with the Texas Rangers.

Most Unbeatens Will Win

By United Press International

There are still 15 major college football undefeated and untied teams as we near the midway portion of the schedule, and after this weekend's activity that list is expected to be reduced to 12.

That is the opinion of our regional forecasters who predict ninth-ranked Tennessee (5-0), 20th-ranked Miami (O.) (5-0) and unranked Harvard (3-0) will be beaten Saturday in respective conference games.

Tennessee's winning streak is expected to be halted by second-ranked Alabama (5-0) at Birmingham, Ala., in a Southeastern Conference game. Miami is not expected to get by Bowling Green (4-1) in a key Mid-American Conference clash and Cornell is picked to down Harvard in an Ivy League contest.

There's a possibility that four other undefeated-untied clubs also might become upset victims. Thirteenth-ranked Houston (5-0) meets a tough rival in 16th-ranked Miami (Fla.) Friday night at Miami. 17th-ranked Arizona (5-0) faces rugged Texas Tech (4-1), 10th-ranked Missouri (5-0) takes on Oklahoma State (3-1) and Richmond (5-0) tackles West Virginia (3-2).

We like all four to win but not without a great deal of effort.

The rest of the nation's unbeaten-untied major colleges all should have an easy time of it Saturday.

Top-ranked Ohio State (4-0) meets Indiana (2-3), fourth-ranked Michigan (5-0) faces Wisconsin (1-4), sixth-ranked Penn State (5-0) goes against Syracuse (0-5), seventh-ranked LSU (5-0) tangles with Kentucky (2-3) eighth-ranked Notre Dame (4-0) meets Army (0-4), 14th-ranked Arizona State (5-0) faces Brigham Young (1-3) and 15th-ranked Tulane (4-0) plays North Carolina (2-3).

Notre Dame 42 Army 3—There was a time when this was the "Game of the Year."

Penn St. 37 Syracuse 7—Ben Schwartzwalder's last year at Syracuse is a never-ending nightmare.

Navy 20 Air Force 17—Next to Army, this is biggest game on Middles' schedule.

Boston College 21 Pittsburgh 20—Eagles get one point for home field advantage.

Also: Cornell 7 over Harvard, Yale 17 over Columbia, Colgate 14 over Princeton, Delaware 10 over Rutgers, Dartmouth 3 over Brown.

The South

Alabama 28 Tennessee 14—Crimson Tide still has to win at LSU Thanksgiving night to wrap up third straight SEC title.

LSU 31 Kentucky 10—Bengals to remain unbeaten while waiting for that showdown with Alabama.

Florida 21 Mississippi 17—Gators still hope to turn disappointing season around.

Clemson 14 Duke 13—Tigers still have outside shot at ACC crown.

Also: Georgia Tech 7 over

Auburn, Georgia 17 over Vanderbilt, Maryland 13 over Wake Forest, Tulane 10 over North Carolina, Richmond 6 over West Virginia, Houston 7 over Miami (Fla.), South Carolina 6 over Ohio University.

The Midwest

Ohio St. 37 Indiana 6—Buckeyes unlikely to be challenged for another six weeks.

Minnesota 32 Iowa 7—Go phers stick to the ground.

Michigan 35 Wisconsin 14—Wolverines starting to move.

Northwestern 21 Purdue 10—Wildcats back in their own league.

Also: Illinois 3 over Michigan St., Cincinnati 7 over Wichita St., Bowling Green 6 over Miami (O.).

"To finesse or not to finesse, that is the question," soliloquized Hamlet, the melancholy Dane.

Guidenstern had opened the queen of diamonds against Hamlet's four-heart contract.

The fair Ophelia, who had merely raised Hamlet from one heart to two, put down a sound dummy. Hamlet's hand was sour also and a quick look at dummy indicated that everything was fine in the state of Denmark.

He won the diamond lead in dummy and played the queen of hearts. Rosenkranz, sitting East, was too good a bridge player to cover one of equal honors with another honor, so his failure to play the king or to stop to think gave no clue to the monarch's location.

Hamlet soliloquized further, "The fair Ophelia will be made if I don't make this contract. Can I lose it if I finesse? Yes, I can. Can I lose it if I don't finesse? No, I can't."

West was right. If he finessed, West would take his king and lead another diamond. Dummy's second high diamond would be ruffed and with two tricks in the defense would still collect a diamond and a spade.

But Hamlet went up with his ace; led a second trump and claimed his contract.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

BIG TIME: (Q.) I would do anything for Seth. What he wants me to do is, when we meet in the hall at school, to just say "Hi" to him like I was only a friend, and not act like I am his steady girl friend.

He says he wants to continue to see me after school on weekends. He is trying to be big time at school this year. He is a senior and plays football. I am just a junior.—Fran in Florida.

(A.) The urge to be a big wheel in high school sometimes overwhelms a boy or girl. It sometimes leads a boy or girl astray. Your friend Seth's ambitions apparently have mixed up his sense of values to some extent.

But the friendship between him and you can be private if both of you are willing to make it that way. If the arrangement he wants is acceptable to you, and if you think it is fair and honest, go ahead.

If at any time you feel he is being unfair or dishonest, either in his school activities or with you, drop him at once.

NO SISSY: (Q.) My friends think I'm a sissy. My sister told me this and she doesn't lie to me. I don't know why they think so.

Not long ago my friends and I went to the movies. They all dressed casually, but I had on school clothes. Could this be why? I am also a fairly good diver, and when I dive, I point my toes and try to use good form. Could this be the reason? I am 14—Accused in Alabama.

(A.) It may be either of the items you mention or something altogether different. You may be sensitive, or highly intelligent, or noticeably thoughtful of others, or fastidious about cleanliness. None of these is sissy, but some boys your age think being rough and tough is the only way to be, and anything the slightest bit different makes them uncomfortable and unsure of themselves, and prone to criticize and pick excuses for their lack.

Be yourself, and look around you for boys more like you. You will find them, although there are not so many as there are of the rough-tough type.

Even if Bond Issue Passes

State Tax Cut Unlikely Next Year

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—State taxpayers who might have been anticipating a major tax cut in light of next year's gubernatorial election campaign apparently are doomed to disappointment.

Governor Rockefeller released his annual mid-fiscal year budget summary Wednesday and the document claimed that if current trends continue—and if the voters approve the $3.5 billion transit bond issue—the state will end its fiscal year next March 31 with a modest surplus of $52 million.

In terms of lower state taxes, that total would represent a reduction of only about $3 a person and if the figures hold up, it would appear unlikely there would be any tax cut at all.

Although Rockefeller was predicting only a slight surplus, other prominent state officials were entering the picture with their own estimates and Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea was suggesting that the state could afford to at least retain one tax reduction approved earlier this year.

The summary, issued annually at the half-way point in the April 1 - March 31 fiscal year, calls for total spending of $8,757 billion and predicts revenues of $8,809 billion—including $45 million from the transit bond issue, which is still subject to voter decision in the Nov. 6 election.

Duryea, in Albany for a so-called mini-session of the Assembly, issued a statement through his office saying he would "strongly recommend the surplus be dedicated to tax relief."

The Republican lawmaker said the Assembly's fiscal committee had not "precisely determined" how large the surplus would be but "it is our conclusion that the amount will be at least sufficient to continue the surcharge suspension on the state income tax."

The 2.5 per cent income tax surcharge, imposed in 1972 to bail the state out of a fiscal crisis, was suspended at the last session of the legislature when it became obvious the state was going to end up its fiscal year with a surplus.

A spokesman for the Assembly Ways and Means Committee said suspension of the surcharge would amount to about $80 million, thus indicating a predicted surplus of at least that amount—without including any bond fund money.

Presumably under Rockefeller's analysis, if the bond issue is not approved the $45 million in revenue would be subtracted from the $52 million surplus, thus leaving only $7 million extra next March 31.

Meanwhile, Democratic State Comptroller Arthur Levitt has predicted publicly that the surplus will be at least $200 million to $300 million.

The growing argument at the half-way point over a predicted surplus is reminiscent of last year's dispute between the governor and Democrats, when the surplus was predicted at anywhere from $58 million by Rockefeller to $500 million by Democratic legislators.

The actual surplus at the end of the fiscal year was $28 million according to Rockefeller, had not increased at the predicted rate, more than offsetting larger revenues from other income sources.

The spending of $8,757 billion is $124 million less than originally estimated. The decreased outgo was credited to welfare reform efforts and a slowdown in the pace of capital improvements such as highways.

An Assembly spokesman said its fiscal study indicated an $80 million increase in sales taxes would be offset by an $80 million loss in business tax collections. At the same time, personal income taxes were expected to increase by about $40 million and a net gain of $40 million in more revenue in other taxes and decreased spending would leave the state with at least $80 million surplus.

The $8,809 billion revenue estimate is $72 million less than the figure Rockefeller originally presented to the legislature for the 1973-74 fiscal year. The decrease, Rockefeller said, was due largely to changes in personal income, sales and insurance tax laws. In addition, he said, business tax collections

Sen. Jackson Wants Fuel Rationed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., has called for fuel rationing and other conservation measures, as eleven Arab oil nations announced they would cut production to try to force a halt to U.S. support of Israel.

Jackson, at a news conference Wednesday, said he was proposing legislation to declare a fuel emergency, impose compulsory limits on auto use, set up a rationing system and force electric utilities to switch to coal to fire their boilers.

Jackson also urged use of the U.S. Navy strategic oil reserve field at Elk Hills, Calif., to fill any gap left by an Arab oil shutdown. Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said he opposed such a move.

President Nixon met at the White House Wednesday with foreign ministers of four Middle Eastern oil-producing countries —Algeria, Kuwait, Morocco and Saudi Arabia. Nixon called the meeting "constructive." Later, Foreign Minister Umar al-Saqqaf of Saudi Arabia turned away and declined comment when a reporter asked him whether a possible cut-off of Arab oil exports to the West was mentioned.

The Arab oil producers announced after a conference in Kuwait Wednesday they intended to cut production five per cent a month until the West forces Israel to return lands captured in the 1967 war and the rights of the Palestinians are restored.

The House Wednesday approved, 387 to 72, a bill for mandatory allocation at the production and wholesale levels of all petroleum products, and to forbid their export. The Senate had passed a similar bill, and the two now go to conference.

Jackson said his more drastic proposals would save 3.3 million barrels of oil a day, more than covering the 1.2 million barrels a day currently imported from the Mideast.

Calling the Arab cutback "oil blackmail," Jackson said "I believe this kind of move on the part of our government will have a healthy effect on bringing the war to an end. I think the Arabs will better understand that they cannot force the United States to change our policy by using oil to threaten us."

Arabs Hold Bank Hostages, Negotiations Are Continuing

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Five Arab gunmen raided the Bank of America here today, seized between 20 and 30 hostages and reportedly demanded the release of all Palestinian guerrillas imprisoned in Lebanon.

Grenade explosions and machine gun fire resounded in the heart of Beirut's business district as police and army troops encircled the bank building. Pedestrians dived for cover.

After a two-hour gun battle in which one of the five gunmen, three policemen and five passing civilians were wounded, the gunmen agreed to negotiate with Algerian Ambassador Mohammed Yazid and a Palestinian guerrilla leader identified as Tewfik Safadi.

Lebanese Interior Minister Bahij Takeddin and several police chiefs were on the scene. Yazid and Safadi reported that the gunmen were holding between 20 and 30 bank employees, but had agreed to release women employees and customers in the bank.

The gunmen were quoted as saying it was "not a bank robbery but an operation against American interests, with the twin purpose of securing the release of our comrades in Lebanon jails."

The gunmen also demanded safe conduct out of Lebanon and a plane to fly them to Algeria. Negotiations were continuing.

Sample Orange Juice Makes 18 Persons Ill

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Eighteen persons in four cities fell ill after sampling orange juice offered by a woman who said she was doing a market survey. Police say the juice may have been spiked with hallucinogenic drugs.

All the victims were approached by the woman in central Florida shopping centers. Ten persons were treated at a Lakeland hospital on Wednesday night and eight were admitted, two in poor condition. In St. Petersburg, three shoe store employees were treated for hallucinations and released.

Three persons in Orlando and two in Daytona Beach were listed as satisfactory after being admitted on Tuesday.

Many complained of hallucinations and all said they felt drunk with no sense of coordination, officers say.

The victims told Lakeland police they were shopping when approached by an attractive woman in her late 20s who said she was conducting market research and asked them to sample two kinds of orange juice.

"So far as we know everybody who drank the stuff has gotten sick," said Lakeland detective D. E. Peterson. "It seems to have been some hallucinogenic drug such as LSD."

In St. Petersburg, police said the woman first went to a jewelry store, but employees said they were too busy and she then went to a shoe store, where three workers drank the juice and became sick.

In Daytona Beach and Orlando, police said it was apparently the same woman who asked employees in jewelry stores to sample two brands of orange juice.

Three workers in the Orlando store and two in the Daytona Beach store were knocked un-
